STRIKES THAW MOVE

EVELYN NESBIT OPPOSES THAW

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., April 12.—Evelyn Nesbit, divorced wife of Harry K. Thaf, filed a petition in courst here today opposing Thaw's possible release from the Pennsylvania hospital for mental and nervous diseases. Thaw goes on trial here Monday seeking his liberty.

The petition is in the interest of Evelyn Nesbit's son, Russell William Thaw, fourteen. The petition states "the boy has an expectancy in any estate Thaw may leave," by right of descent and that these rights should be protected.

The petition further states that Thaw is mentally unfit and if released "will dissipate his own estate and the life interest in his tather's estate."

Thaw has repudiated the boy's legitimacy, but Miss Nesbit contends he is Thaw's son and bears a striking resemblance to Harry.

The court has made no decision as to whether or not the petition will be allowed.

Following the visit to Bucharest Prince Naruhiko, the press announces that an agreement has practically been reached for the conclusion of a commercial and maritime convention between Japan and Rumania.

CLEVELAND IN CLEAN-UP

Threats Made Against District Attorney Bring Him to Collapse.

CLEVELAND, O., April 12.—Cleveland's "greatest dry clean up" was on in full swing today.

Threats to "get" him have been made against U. S. Attorney A. E. Bernstein, who last night announced that 150 federal officers had secretly gathered evidence that would result in the arrest of nearly 400 alleged bootleggers in what Bernstein termed "Cleveland's greatest clean-up."

Bernstein today was suffering from a nervous collapse. The threats it was said were received by telephone, warning him to cease his "mopping up" campaign.

The federal agents today prepared to padlock 200 places and continue the "dry cleaning" despite Bernstein's condition.

Upside Down.

A Philadelphia lawyer tells of an attorney who was arguing a case before a certain judge, between whom and himself there was no love lost. The judge listened for a while with ill-concealed impatience, and then burst out with:

"Nonsense, sir! You have your points of law all upside down!"

"I don't doubt that they seem so to your Honor," replied the attorney with a respectful bok, "but you'll think differently when your Honor is reversed."—Everybodys Magazine.

Confidential advices said that representatives of Adolfo de la Huerta and Gen. Felix Diaz reached an agreement at Galveston to continue the revolution with joined forces.

JAPANESE OUT AGREE TO KEEP

WASHINGTON, April 12.—The house today agreed to the Japanese exclusion section of the Johnson immigration bill without even the formality of an attempt to amend it.

Sentiment in the house was understood to be so strongly in favor of the Japanese exclusion section that a movement was under way to instruct the house conference committee to insist on it if the senate rejected it.

House conferees will be members of the immigration committee, all of whom have agreed to demand the exclusion section, even if it results in a collision with the senate which delays all immigration legislation this session.

Representative Burton, Ohio, made a brief speech urging the house to remember the senate was in closer touch with foreign affairs, and suggesting the house agree to whatever disposition was made of this feature of the bill by the senate. No one replied to Burton and the house proceeded immediately to adopt the section.

Tax Bill to Create An Apparent Deficit

WASHINGTON, April 12. — The Mellon plan tax bill reported to the senate will create an "apparent deficit" of $50,989,444 in government revenue, but this will be taken care of by the improvement of business incident to putting taxes on a sounder basis, Senator Smoot, Utah, said today in submitting to the senate his formal report on the measure.

The bill as reported slashes $434,720,000 in revenue from the present law whereas Secretary of the Treasury Mellon said it would be unsafe to cut taxes more than $320,000,000.

Smoot estimated that the bill would yield $595,000,000 in surtaxes and normal taxes and $927,000,000 from corporation taxes. This would make the total annual income tax $1,522,000,000.

Miscellaneous internal revenue taxes would give $756,914,000 and ordinary receipts $473,177,000 more, making ordinary tax receipts about $3,247,091,000 while the budget bureau has estimated that the government needs $3,298,080,444.

MOSCOW, April 12.—Rumania is reported to have declared a "state of emergency" thruout Bessarabia.

New Haven Journal-Courier: If Senator Walsh is to be offered to the country as the exponent of the kind of government inquiry that has been going on at Washington to the exclusion of the public business, as the representative of what has clearly become disorderly legislative conduct, we should not feel that Mr. Coolidge, if he becomes the candidate of the opposing party, had much to fear when the people gathered in the polling booths "alone with their God and their pencils."

FACES INQUIRY

Howard Mannington, owner of the now famous "little green house on K street," confidential friend and former colleague of former Attorney General Daugherty, whose name has been mentioned by the senate oil investigating committee, returned to this country from Europe and will probably be called upon to testify before that body.

IRRIGATORS ARE PLEASED

RECOMMENDATIONS OF COMMISSIONS MEAN MUCH.

If Congress Adopts Suggestions Irrigated Section of Nebraska Will Be Benefited Several Millions.

While no details have yet been received as to what has been specifically recommended for the North Platte valley in Nebraska, men interested in irrigation lands in that section feel that if congress will adopt the recommendations of the fact finding commission, just submitted, owners of land under the big government ditch will benefit by several million dollars.

The commission found, in effect, that the reclamation department must write off a loss of some twenty millions, with the alternative of forcing off the land many of those now tilling them.

The situation in the North Platte valley was this: The land was offered for sale at a cost for water rights estimated at $35 an acre. Many persons took advantage of what looked like a liberal offer, especially as they were given a long period of years to pay for it. Now that the project has been completed the government is demanding of most of them that they pay in $71 an acre. This includes penalties for failure to make payments in the past.

The recommendation of the commission is that the government remit a considerable part of it, just how much as applied to the North Platte valley is not yet made known here, and that instead of requiring every land owner to pay the same that the price be rated according to the actual value of the land. This is what the water-users association has been fighting for.

When A. N. Mathers was in Lincoln recently he said that the land owners were entitled to receive these concessions. He said that the engineers had made a number of mistakes, and the government was charging the cost up to the land owners. He thought the real trouble was that it was handled as an engineering and not as a business proposition.

ASK STUDENTS TO HOLD STRIKE

CLEVELAND, O. April 12—Nearly 300 members of the Case school here threaten to strike Monday as protest against the suspension of five students on the staff of "The Case Tech", the school publication.

The suspension resulted from a "scandal sheet" issued Wednesday, which pictured a member of the faculty seated with a thinly veiled—almost nude—dancing girl.

The story, itself also prankinshly faked, intimated that the highly respected professor was more interested in the "ne plus ultra" of the maiden than the fourth dimension or Einstein theory.

The suspended students are James Johnson, editor; H. H. Clarke, business manager; J. H. McDaniel, K. M. Eicher, and A. W. Fritz.

Petitions are being circulated calling on the students to strike Monday.

PINCHOT WON'T COMMENT

No Remarks as to Whether He Suggested Appointment of Heney by Committee.

HARRISBURG, Pa., April 12.—Governor Pinchot today refused to comment, when asked if he had suggested appointment of Francis J. Heney, California, as counsel to aid the senate committee investigating the books of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon.

Responsibility for causing "the most momentous political battle since the senate resolved itself into an inquisitoral body," was placed on Governor Pinchot in a story under Washington dateline, published in the Philadelphia Public Ledger today.

The story jointed out that Governor Pinchot had charged Secretary Mellon with laxity in prohibition enforcement and that shortly afterward Senator Couzens, Michigan, who has bitterly opposed Mellon, succeeded in having Heney appointed counsel for the Mellon investigating committee, which he headed.

Couzens was said to have frankly admitted that it was Governor Pinchot who had urged him to engage Heney.

RATE SCALE IS ATTACKED

LARGE INCREASE IN FURNITURE FREIGHT PROPOSED.

New Schedule Would Mean Exclusion of Indiana Output From Lincoln Markets, Is Shown.

Central freight Association lines, in their attack on furniture rates from Michigan, Indiana and Ohio points are threatening Lincoln trade, W. S. Whitten said Saturday on his return from Chicago, where the proposal to cancel the commodity rates was heard before the intrestate commerce commission.

The proposed substitution of class rates on carload lots of furniture would result in enormous increases from the points involved, as furniture is charged either third class rates with a minimum of 12,000 lbs., or 126 per cent of fourth class rates with a minimum of 20,000 lbs. Furniture from these points to Lincoln comes in mixed lots, moreover, which are charged according to the highest rated article in the car, and on the highest minimum. This makes the rate virtually equivalent to third class rate on a 20,000 lb. minimum, figuring on a basis of a 34 foot car. It is impossible to load 12,000 lbs. of furniture in a 34 foot car, Mr. Whitten says.

The change in rates would affect practically all the furniture handled here, including kitchen cabinets and all the medium and low priced stocks. In 1923 there were 196 cars of furniture shipped to Lincoln for jobbing and distribution, from sixteen states, and 35 cars came from the territory involved in the present hearing. An increase would operate to eliminate Indiana from the Lincoln market, since it must compete with Wisconsin and northern Illinois, where commodity rates are in force.

"We contend that the present commodity rates are remunerative," Mr. Whitten said, "and Lincoln jobbers shouldn't be shut out of any markets on the grounds alleged by the carriers. The hearing is an important one—it is still going on—with men in attendance from all up and down the valley.

"It is interesting to note that of out 196 cars of furniture last year, thirty-one came from Wisconsin, forty-nine from Missouri, twenty-three from Wisconsin, thirteen from Indiana, and smaller quantities from North Carolina, Michigan, Ohio, Minnesota, Iowa, Arkansas, Tennessee, Georgia, Virginia, West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Arizona.

"High class and expensive furniture, which comes from Grand Rapids, is not affected in the present controversy."

Mr Whitten compiled tables showing the present and proposed rates from ten furniture shipping points in Indiana, Michigan and Ohio. The largest increase would be in the rate from Evansville, now 53 cents per 100 lbs. The class rate of $1 05 1-2 would represent an increase of 78 8 per cent. The increase from Shelbyville would be 40 per cent; from Muncie 73 per cent; Berne, 21 per cent, Paoli, 23 per cent, Elwood, 22 per cent, Muskegon, 30 per cent, Grand Rapids, 19 per cent. Columbus, 21 per cent. Toledo, 20 per cent

SAYS SLOAN IS CONJURER

PICKING IMAGINARY EXCUSES OUT OF THIN AIR.

Mr. Sorensen Says Gentleman From Geneva Never Had Chance and Was Spitting Against Political Wind.

C. A. Sorensen, the only campaign manager Senator Norris had in the late primary, took his typewriter in hand Saturday to reply to the letter of former Congressman Sloan, who recited what he believed to be the reasons for his defeat. Mr. Sorensen says he is conjuring up excuses, that he never did have a chance, that he is spitting against the political wind. He says:

Reply to Sloan by C. A. Sorensen.

There is no occasion for Mr. Sloan conjuring up excuses; he never had a chance. He was spitting against the political wind. He placed altogether too much faith in the power of money, newspaper support and the republican machine. Unfortunately, the people have a mind of their own.

Sloan charges that many Germans voted for Norris. Undoubtedly true, but what of that? How long are the citizens of this state who happen to be of German descent to be kicked from pillar to post and spat upon because, forsooth, their kinsmen across the water got into an unfortunate war? Is there anything honorable or manly in our taking out our spite against Germany on men and women who left that country forty years ago? Is there no such thing as forget and forgive? Mr. Sloan's reflections on the voters of foreign birth is uncalled for and calculated to fan the flames of hate and prejudice. His attitude toward them is sufficient explanation of why they voted for someone else.

Sloan is excited about an imaginary klan vote. The record shows that the Catholic rural communities voted solidly for Norris. So did the colored people. Is it possible that the Catholics, negroes and ku klux klan went arm in arm to the polls? Mr. Sloan knows better. His railing at our foreign born citizens would logically entitle him to the kluxer vote.

Sloan declares that Senator Norris and myself are not republicans. United States Senators Howell, Capper and Borah urged the nomination of Norris. Sloan I suppose would also read them out of the party. Mr. Sloan forgets that under the direct primary the republican party is not the private property of any one person; the party belongs to the voters. Considering the majority given Norris it would appear that perhaps Norris and myself are fairly good republicans and Sloan not in good standing.

Norris won on his merits. The plain people (and there are many of them) love Norris because he is honest. No Sinclair or Doheny ever came near his office. His meager means is a badge of honor. He has courage; he dared to stand by his convictions and vote against war. He is independent. He puts welfare of country above party advantage; no Smoot or Lodge can tell him how to vote. Party lines do not hold him; in his opinion parties are the servants of the people and not the people the servants of the parties. He stands up for Nebraska and in doing so voted against the ship subsidy steal and the tariff bill which sucks millions from the middle west for the benefit of the Atlantic coast.

IS SENTENCED TO WED.

CHICAGO, April 12.—Tho a jury in Judge Frederick De Young's court yesterday failed to find LeRoy Troemel guilty of robbery, the judge passed sentence just the same.

His action was at the request of Martha Mathas, chief witness, who proved Troemels alibi to charges that he held up a taxi driver, January 11. On the night of the holdup they were together, planning for their wedding, she testified.

The judge, in passing sentence, eliminated such phrases as "in accordance with the findings of the jury" and substituted those which are rightfully associated with "love, honor and obey."

TO DISCUSS INSURANCE

COMMISSION CITIES BUS LINE MEN TO APPEAR APRIL 25.

Hears That a Number of Them Are Not Carrying Any Liability Protection for Benefit of Passengers.

The state railway commission has issued an order on the operators of all inter-city bus lines in the state to appear before it on April 25 and discuss the necessity of an order that they shall carry liability insurance so that passengers who may suffer injury thru their operation may be protected in the recovery of money damages.

The order was issued on the commission's own motion, and recites that the operators shall show cause why such an insurance order should not issue. The commission hears that some of the proprietors carry such liability and some do not. As users of the highways carrying people for hire they are common carriers, and, therefore, subject to the supervision and direction of the commission.

Some of the owners carry what is deemed to be an insufficient sum. The commission had the matter up once before, but issued no order in the matter. Some of the bus men voluntarily and for the protection of their own invested capital took out liability insurance, but since then there have been changes of ownership of several lines and new men have come into the business.

Liability insurance has been objected to by some because of the added cost which takes a big bite out of profits, and these have contented themselves with securing as much safety as possible in driving.

INDIAN SUES OFFICER

James H. Wright Claims Permanent Injury From Shooting and Asks Heavy Damages.

NORFOLK, Neb., April 12.—Suit has been filed in district court at Madison by James H. Wright against Patrolman Ora J. Buckmaster of the Norfolk police force and his bondsmen, the Massachusetts Bonding and Investment company, for $10,000 claimed as damages caused by the alleged illegal shooting and wounding of Wright by the officer. Wright is a Cherokee Indian.

Wright, according to the police, had been arrested on a charge of vagrancy previous to the shooting and had been ordered by the court to leave town, which he had failed to do, and the police officers had been given orders to pick him up again. On the morning of February 27 Policeman Buckmaster attempted to arrest him, but, according to Buckmaster, he broke away and ran, when the officer fired at him.

This suit follows in the wake of one recently filed against former Chief of Police Matt Shaffer by C. H. Glissman for alleged illegal arrest and false imprisonment.

TWIN LOAVES IN DISPUTE

BAKERS MUST COMPLY WITH NEW STATE LAW.

Each Unit of Twin Loaves Must Weigh One-half Pound, One Pound or One and One-half Pounds.

When is a twin loaf of bread not a twin loaf? This question has come before the Nebraska department of agriculture which announced some months ago it was bent on enforcing the standard weight law, a law which is pending in the supreme court of the United States on an appeal by bakers of Omaha.

The question is important for under the law the standard weight must apply to loaves of bread whether they be twins or triplets or multiple loaves. When the bill was before the legislature bakers had an amendment offered in the senate which provided that the standard weight should not apply to twin loaves. This amendment ruined the bill in the opinion of its supporters and the amendment was stricken out.

The law provides that loaves of bread shall be made shall be one-half pound, one pound or one and one-half pounds, and also in multiples of one pound and no other weights. It provides that these weights shall apply to units of twin or multiple loaves. It was argued by friends of the bill that bakers would bake twin loaves,, the whole mass weighing one and one-half pounds, and later the retailer could break the twins apart, leaving two units of three-quarters of a pound each and sell these in violation of the standard weight and manipulate the price to obtain an increased price for the odd weight units. The intent of the supports of the bill is to permit bakers to change the price of bread at will but never to change the weight so that consumers will not know what they are really paying for bread.

Bakers are now proposing to cut a large loaf half way in two without calling it a twin loaf. This can be broken into two parts and each unit can be sold in violation of the law.

While the governor and Secretary Shumway of the department of agriculture have asserted they are enforcing the standard weight law, bakers continue to use old labels which disregards the provisions of the law that a tolerance of not more than two ounces per pound in excess of the standard weight shall be allowed and no more.

The attorney general has replied to the department of agriculture by saying he does not see any distinction in interpreting twin loaf, whether it is obtained by putting two separate pieces of dough or of baking one large piece of dough and severing it. Some bakers are cutting the big piece of dough nearly in two.

"In this connection," says the attorney general, "we call your attention to the recent conference we had with Mr. Schultz, one of the bakers. We told him he should not cut the dough entirely in two so that it might be mistaken for a twin loaf. It is probable that this bread law should be amended, but as the law now reads we believe that it would be in violation to bake two pieces of dough so that it might be broken in two and sold as separate loaves."

PINS HOPES IN A CANVASS

McCormick Believes Official Count of State to Give Him Victory Over Deneen.

CHICAGO. April 12. — Senator McCormick has given up all hope of gaining enough votes in the twenty precincts still out to give him victory over Charles Deneen, former governor in their race for republican nomination for senator from Illinois.

Deneen has a lead of 4,016 votes and the missing precincts will not change the result materially, it is held.

McCormick, however, pins his hopes of beating Deneen to an official canvass of the entire state.

MAY REPORT G. O. P. BONUS

REPUBLICAN BILL IS ORDERED FAVORABLY REPORTED.

Would Give Veterans Cash Payments Under $50 and Twenty-Year Endowment Insurance Policy.

WASHINGTON, April 12—The bonus bill—providing a twenty year endowment insurance policy for veterans—was ordered favorably reported by the senate finance committee today so it can be rushed thru ahead of the tax bill.

The bill is practically in the same form as passed by the house.

The bonus bill was rushed out with amazing speed after only a brief discussion in committee.

Its chief provisions are:

Cash payments to veterans who under the bill would receive less than $50.

A twentyyear endownment life insurance policy for other veterans.

Payment made on the basis of compensation of $1 a day for home service up to $500 and $1.25 a day for overseas service up to $625.

A restriction that the first sixty days of service cannot apply on either the cash or endowment plan.

All enlisted men, women and officers up to the rank of captain in the army and marine corps and up to lieutenants in the navy are eligible.

An allowance for making loans in the insurance policies after two years up to ninety per cent of the value of the policies.

The bill will be formally reported to the senate as soon as possible and it is expected to be passed without material change and with little discussion.

Democrats indicated they would not press their cash bonus plan in committee but intend to have it reported as a minority substitute at the time the republican bill is given to the senate.

INDIANAPOLIS. April 12.—With one long struggle for the freedom of Gov. Warren T. McCray at an end, his attorneys today were building up defense lines for the trial in federal court on an indictment charging the governor with fraudulent use of the mails.

The federal case will go to trial on April 21. There will be no postponement of the trial date according to federal Judge Anderson.

McCray's attorneys launched immediately into preparation of the federal case after the jury in the Marion county criminal court which heard the case against McCray on indictments charging embezzlement of $155,000 from the state board of agriculture had disagreed

SHOWDOWN IS NEAR OVER INVESTIGATION

Attempt To Force Action Saturday Is Blocked By Senator Watson.

STARTS POLITICAL DEBATE

Jones Resolution Gives Heney Official Status.

REPUBLICANS TO AID PASSAGE

Walsh Regards Coolidge-Mellon Effort to Halt Probe Attempt to Eliminate All Further Inquiries.

WASHINGTON, April 12. — A showdown between President Coolidge and the senate over investigations of executive departments was postponed today when parliamentary procedure blocked action on the Jones resolution.

An old fashioned political debate was started by Senator Watson, Indiana, who took the floor after the Jones resolution was referred to the contingent expenses committee.

While Watson said the senate was within its rights to inquire into the administration of government departments, he declared that it should be "done" in a legitimate way" and upheld the president's contention that the private employment of Francis J. Heney of California, by Senator Couzens, Michigan, to probe the internal revenue bureau violated the "spirit" of the law.

The democrats have served notice that they intend to force the adoption of the Jones resolution which would meet the president's objection by giving Heney official status.

Watson charged that Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania recommended appointment of Heney with the idea of having the federal prohibition enforcement bureau investigated.

"I have indisputable evidence that "So faras I am concerned there will be no such investigation. Nobody ever believed that prohibition would be enforced up to the present hour."

Governor Pinchot injected himself into the investigation," Watson said.

"If Pinchot inspired the selection of Heney and his recommendations were agreed to by Couzens and the two democratic committee members, we know that the prohibition bureau will be investigated and books and papers and witnesses would be called from all over the country. If a wholesale investigation of the prohibition bureau is started, there will be no end to it. Pinchot and Heney would drag it out until election day. There would have been a saturnalia of vituperation and aspersion when the dragnet of gossip was thrown out.

The senate is ready to adopt the democratic resolution refusing to halt the investigation of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, even tho President Coolidge and Secretary Mellon demand it be halted. If Mellon wants to resign he will have an opportunity to do so, senate democrats said today as they claimed to have enough progressive-republican votes pledged to maintain their position.

More is involved than the Mellon inquiry, senators held. Senator Walsh, Montana, regards the Coolidge-Mellon effort to halt the investigation of the internal revenue bureau—which involves indirectly an investigation of Secretary Mellon—as an effort to halt all the senatorial inquiries now under way. For that reason the democrats and progressives are virtually unanimous in support of the resolution to give the Mellon investigators broader powers and permitting them to hire Francis J. Heney, noted California graft investigator, out of senate funds.

Senator Walsh, Robinson and other democratic leaders are determined to have the senate settle decisively whether the executive branch of th government or the legislative shall decide when and how congressional investigations are to be carried on.

NO THOUGHT OF QUITTING

Mellon at Pittsburgh Declares He Did Not Intimate He Would Resign.

PITTSBURGH, April 12.—"I never considered a thought of resignation," Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury, said here today, speaking on his letter to the president, which caused Mr. Coolidge to rebuke the senate for its investigation into the treasury department.

"Of course, there are circumstances under which any man would be obliged to resign, but I never intimated that I would quit," he said.

Secretary Mellon arrived here this morning to attend a banquet which the Pittsburgh chamber of commerce will hold in his honor tonight.

"I merely wanted to show that if interference with executive departments was continued, congress would be responsible," Mellon continued.

"The result of these activities has been cumulative and it has kept up until efficiency of the department has been seriously impaired. There is work which is held up because those in charge do not know what action to take pending further developments."

FORD'S NAME WITHDRAWN

FORMAL ACTION EXPECTED IN FORTY-EIGHT HOURS.

Manufacturer Still Favors Coolidge for President Because He Believes No Abler Man in Field.

(Copyright 1924 by United Press)

DETROIT, April 12.—Henry Ford's withdrawal as the presidential nominee of the Michigan delegation to the democratic convention will be in the hands of William A. Comstock, democratic state committeeman, within forty-eight hours.

Comstock has already received informal notification over the telephone that Mr. Ford will not accept the honor conferred upon him by the democrats of his home state in spite of his open avowal in favor of President Coolidge.

"I am going to withdraw," said Ford yesterday. "The letter will be written today or tomorrow. I have said that I favored the election of Coolidge. I am not an Indian giver. Nothing has happened since I said that I was for Coolidge to cause me to change my mind."

Ford is very frank regarding his position in relation to Coolidge. He is for Coolidge first, because he believes Coolidge to be honest and second, because he does not see any prospect of a man whom he considers better or abler being nominated to run against the president.

Ford's endorsement of Coolidge, however, is a personal endorsement. Ford is very frank in his opposition to certain members of the president's present cabinet. He has no use for Secretary of War Weeks and has often said so in print. There are one or two other members of the cabinet that have not measured up to the Ford standard, and he is very open in saying what he thinks about these men. He does not regard his support for Coolidge as in any sense a support for the republican party.

Reports emanating from China to the effect that Ford was expected to visit that country soon were called to his attention.

"I would like to make a trip around the world one of these days," he said, "but it won's be soon—perhaps in a year or two. I would like to see Japan and China and visit the Philippines and have often said so, and I presume this is the cause of the report of my expected visit."

Ford does not intend to visit either the republican or democratic national conventions.

"I don't think I'd care to go to them," he said. "Coolidge is certain to be nominated at Cleveland, and I don't think I'd care to go to New York to see the other convention. Conventions don't interest me."

Ford believes that 1924 will be a prosperous year.

"The basis of prosperity is work," he said. "Isn't there enough for everybody to do? Our daily sales are averaging 10,000 cars. Our production is about 7,500 cars. We cannot keep up with our sales. The Lincoln plant is behind its orders and the tractor plant is running away behind its orders."

The annual meeting of the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton will be held Monday and it is understood that the minority interest, which is less than 1 per cent, may be at the meeting and active. Ford does not expect to attend.

Te D., T. & I. made $1,800,000 last year and if it keeps up its present arning rate it will make about $2,500,000 this year. Plans for road improvement, however, will take all of this money and there is no present intention of declaring a dividend.

The electrification of the first twenty-five miles of the road south of Detroit will be completed in June and Ford now plans on building a big railroad yard at South Charleston, O., eliminating Springfield as a regular station on the road, installing a new telephone system along the line of the road and making other improvements. Eventually he expects to cross the Ohio river and connect his Kentucky coal fields up with Detroit and if the senate passes the Muscle Shoals bill and he secures that project he is expected to build the road on to Florence, Ala.

BANKS TO AID FARMERS

To Assist in the Purchase and Sale of Cattle and Produce Is Bankers' Plan.

FREMONT, Neb., April 12.—Plans formulated for the purpose of lending aid to the farmers of the state were drawn up by a committee of bankers named by the state association at a meeting held in Fremont Thursday night. The report will be submitted to the various district meetings to be held within the next two months.

The report contains proposals whereby the banker will aid the farmer who is in need as well as those who are prosperous. They will lend cooperation in the buying and selling of cattle and produce. In framing the report, the committee considered the fact that agriculture is the big asset of the state and that the prosperity of Nebraska depends on the farmer and his welfare.

Members of the committee present at the meeting in Fremont were Dan V. Stephens, Fremont, chairman; Len J. Davis, Geneva; H. D. Miller, Stanton; F. R. Kingsley, Minden; C. S. Brown, Aurora; and O. T. Schweigher, Chadron. N. W. Dimery, Sidney, the remaining member of the committee, was unable to attend.

The first of the district meetings will be held in Fremont on April 2. The bankers were the guests of Dan Stephens in Fremont and were entertained at a dinner previous to the business session.

NORTHWESTERN CONVENTION

Coolidge Wins Republican Presidential Nomination on Third Ballot at Evanston.

CHICAGO, April 12.—Calvin Coolidge won the rfepublican presidential nomination on the third ballot and the attempt of the LaFollette forces to bolt the convention failed—at the mock republican national convention held at Northwestern University last night.

The convention followed closely the lines of the national convention, with the same number of delegates, banners, orators and other fireworks. On the first ballot President Coolidge received 373 votes, Brigadier General Charles G. Dawes of Chicago, 175, Senator LaFollette 155 and former Gov. Lowden, 163. On the second ballot Mr. Coolidge was given 424 votes. Dawes, 235, LaFollette, 175 and Lowden, 134.

Pennsylvania swung its 79 delegates to Mr. Coolidge on the third ballot giving him 603 votes. When the LaFollette delegates tried to bolt the convention the lights went out and the stampede stopped.

Student pacifists at the university were rebuked by the convention when Leonard Hall, a student, who placed Dawes in nomination, cried out: "Have we any use for the pacifists at Northwestern University?"

A roar of "no" shook the hall.

MIXUP IN VOTE FOR JUDGE

Two Counties in Third District Vote for Two Judges While Others Vote for One.

FREMONT, Neb., April 12.—A discrepancy in voting for the third district supreme court judges has been uncovered with a result, that if contested, the recent election may be declared void and the appointment of a judge to fill the present vacancy. It has been brought out that at least two counties in the third district voted for two judges while the remaining voted for but one.

Robert E. Evans and William L. Dowling polled the largest vote for the supreme court bench. Judge Alberts of Columbus, came in third. He stated Friday however, that he did not plan to contest the election as it now stands.

One judge is to be elected. According to law the selection for the supreme court bench is decided between the two leaders in the primary. Stanton and Pierce counties both voted for two. Dodge, Colfax and Platte voted for one. Judges and lawyers commenting on the case, give various versions. Attorney General Spillman holds that the voters should only cast their ballots for one.

LED DUAL LIFE THO KIDDIES NUMBER 18

Mrs. Anna Beswick of Philadelphia Admits Bigamy, Following Charges of Forgery and Theft.

PHILADELPHIA, April 12.—Admitting she is a bigamist and the mother of eighteen children, Mrs. Anna Beswick is facing charges here today of forgery and theft of $50,000. The dual life of the woman—living alternately with a humble workman and a wealthy banker—was brought to light here last night when she caused the arrest of three men who she declared have blackmailed her repeatedly on the threat that they would expose her in her dual existence. She declares she paid them $50,000 to keep her first marriage secret from her second husband.

Mrs. Beswick declares that last February she was married to William C. Martin, president of the Pennsylvania Cold Storage and Market company and vice president of a Fox Chase bank. Many years ago, she declares, she was married to Samuel E. Beswick, a carpenter, who she states, is the father of her eighteen children.

Mrs. Beswick is charged with forging the name of Judge J. Wills Martin to a letter for the purpose of raising funds to pay three men who threatened to expose her. These men she says, are Herbert Russi, Irwin Hamilton and John McCoy and are now locked up awaiting trial on charges of conspiracy, extortion and blackmail. For the past several months Mrs. Beswick has been dividing her time between the homes of her two husbands. Part of the time she was Mrs. Beswick and lived at the modest home of her husband by that name, while the other portion of her time was spent at the palatial Martin residence at Fox Chase.

In telling her story, her one plea was that her second husband be spared the details of her duplicity.

Mrs. Beswick said that love for her second husband caused her to pay $50,000 hush money to three men whom she now has caused to be arrested on charges of blackmail. She is charged with having stolen the $50,000 from the husband she professed to love.

Assurances in high governmental quarters said the Belgian government was certain to accept with enthusiasm the report of the reparation experts.

BIG CHANCE FOR PEACE

MEMBERS OF REPARATIONS COMMISSION OPTIMISTIC.

Believe Dawes' Experts Report to Give Europe Golden Opportunity If Nations Will Cooperate.

PARIS, April 12.—A golden opportunity for European peace has been put squarely up to Germany by the dramatic gesture of the reparations commission in accepting the Dawes report without debate, in the opinion of the members of the commission themselves.

Astonishment created by the suddenness with which they announced approval of the experts plans had not subsided today. But the commissioners feel this very suddenness was the most important phase of their acceptance.

Germany now is given an opportunity to do likewise, it was said semi-officially, and all Europe then can concentrate on making the plan effective, instead of arguing its good and bad points.

Altho word was received from Berlin that the government had decided to approve the plan, no comment on this was forthcoming from semi-official sources, where it was said a definite formal announcement from Germany was awaited.

Altho the acceptance of the plan by the reparations commission was announced as unanimous, it was reported today that Louis Barthou, representing France, made certain reservations regarding acceptance of the report. This he is said to have done on Poincare's instructions.

The French reservations are understood to be:

1—The report must be completed by a definite system of control and guarantees.

2—Specific penalties must be applied in the event Germany fails to keep her promises.

Commenting on this, Pertinax, critic of the Echo de Paris, wrote: "It is the dut-r of the reparations commission to fix the system of control; it is for the governments to decide upon the penalties."

The senate finance committee will support the bonus bill.

Your Problems

BY MARY GORDON

Just a School-Girl: Will you please send me your name and address? I have several inquiries for you.

Dear Mary Gordon: I am much interested in your column for my thoughts are keeping along with my own young people. My counsel to them always contains some old-fashioned idealism. Or is idealism old-fashioned? Perhaps it is not.

It seems to me that planned courting is much better than haphazard or careless courting. If a boy or girl selects a partner too early in life the chances are that their choice will be if they wait until their judgwill be if they fait until their judgment is better. And there is no greater sorrow than to marry the wrong person. Too early engagements always make one question the wisdom of the choice.

Boys and girls who think seriously for years about their ideal are apt to recognize the type when they meet. If one seeks seriously and devotedly for their ideal it may well be that Providence will help in the search by bringing the ideal into the circle of acquaintance. Many of our greatest people have believed that God has directed in their choice of a life partner. Some people have delayed marriage for many years until they have found their ideal.

It is a safe plan then for a boy or girl to refuse to keep steady company with one who does not come up to their standards. If one lowers their ideals and keeps company with this one and that one just for a good time for the moment because their ideal is not at hand, they are very apt to marry the one that has been kept company with.

The teens for both boys and girls may be in general a period of friendliness towards the other sex, and in particular a time for appraisement and appreciation of the other sex. After discarding from the list of friends those known to be unworthy or without principle there is still wide room for choice in the sensible, trustworthy group where one will find great differences in character, in ability, and in agreeableness. It pays to give much time and thought to such fundamental things as courting and marriage.

May I sign myself a friend of your department and young people.—M. T.

A. No, idealism is never old-fashioned, unless, perhaps, one admits it in public.

I agree, long consideration of the ideal will be helpful. And yet, sometimes, those who cherish ideals too seriously, fail ever to find one who approaches it. Common sense, mixed with a knowledge of human nature, and idealism, form the best combination in that matter, as in others.

Dear Mary Gordon: I am a constant reader of your column and certainly do enjoy reading the answers to some of the letters that are sent in.

As I have no one to advise me I am coming to you for help. I am a young girl in high school and Mary, when my mother was alive my teacher treated me with great respect but now she is just the opposite. She always has some thing to say to me to hurt my feelings in some way and then trys to make it good by giving me a good grade often. I may have the wrong idea but don't you think that kindness comes along with teaching. I have very good grades and try to please her in every way but to no avail I cannot, Mary I wish you would express your idea about her. Do you think she is treating me right? I don't.—Home Ec. Girl.

P. S. Please print this as soon as possible as I simply do not know which way to take it.

A. Perhaps you are unduly sensitive, my dear. Perhaps your teacher is worn out by her duties and is a victim of nerves. Perhaps something in your attitude subtly irritates her.

Of course, kindness should go with the high calling of teacher, but often it does not. The teacher must take discipline, among many other things, into consideration. Sometimes, when the teacher is kind and gentle, advantage is taken of her by the pupils.

Sit down and have a good think with yourself. Are you sure you have not contributed to the situation? If you are sure you have not, bear it with as good grace as you can. In later life you will often find people who irritate you, for no more reason than an inflection of the voice or an annoying little personal trick. You might as well learn now to endure such things. This may sound somewhat harsh — but it is not because I do not sympathize with you, deeply.

Choosing the "Right" Hat

Is your face short and full? You can make it seem longer. Have you a large nose in a thin face? You can correct its proportions. Have you a shary and prominent profile? You can soften it by a happy choice in headgear.

Suppose that you have a "snub" nose. You should, above all, avoid accentuating it by a turned-up round crown, by a brimless hat or by a hat that turns up sharply in front. And you can, on the other hand, make your "snub" nose look straighter by a medium or large sized brim.

If your face is thin, choose a small hat with a narrow or upturned brim, provided that your nose is not too sharp and large. If it is, try a large crown, or even a shape that is mostly crown.

If your face is full and round, you want its fullness reduced. You should, therefore, resolutely pass by the small hat with no brim, or with a turn-up brim. You can wear a medium or large brimmed hat well, but let its brim be either straight or only slightly curved. A sailor hat should become you.

Or perhaps your features are flat. Then you will need a hat of the same type that the round-faced woman does; a brim wider in front than elsewhere especially will become you, unless your nose is "snub."

If you have a sharp and prominent profile, don't be content with the hat that becomes you from the front; be sure you look at the side. If your face is angular, don't wear a sailor hat, or any hat of a style bordering on the sailor. Choose instead the hat with brim waved, turned or curved into graceful lines, for its charming irregularity will offset effectively the angularity of your features. The sharp-featured face needs softness in all its curves and lines. So does the older face. And even if you are blessed with that help to hat-hunting, a medium sized and generally well proportioned face, do not wear "just anything," for some lines will surely accentuate your good points more than others.

BUSH WANTS ANOTHER SHOW

Tells Supreme Court Fevered Condition of Courts Denied Him Fair Trial.

Claiming that the prosecution of bootleggers in Nebraska has brought about a fevered condition of the courts and representatives of the state, George W. Bush tells the supreme court that this was responsible for the denial to him of a fair trial in Omaha on a charge of possession of a still, 2,000 gallons of mash and also of intoxicating liquor. He was fined $500 and given thirty days in jail.

Bush denies any knowledge of the making of the liquor or of how it came into the building where it was found. His landlady said it belonged to a man named Brown who had formerly occupied the apartment, and Bush said he had just moved in himself.

His attorney claims that the rules of evidence were disregarded, and he insists that this ought not to be permittde merely to convict a man. He says that all the stuff got in the raid was allowed in the courtroom during the trial, which prejudiced the jury against him. He objects particularly to the presence in the lot of a bottle of wood alcohol marked with skull and cross bones, and said this threw the horror of death about the minds of the jurors and was not fair to him.

WAGE EARNING FOR WIVES AND MOTHERS

Written by Julia Hoyt.

I have received many letters from wives and mothers asking me to suggest work which they could do which would not interfere with their households.

It is a difficult question to answer without knowing the size of the house and the family, and the qualifications or capabilities of the questioner and her general mode of life. Of course, to run a house and hold an outside job as well means that efficient organization of one's household is necessary. One must arrange one's time so sa to make use of every hour in the day. It undoubtedly means hard work.

Many a Family Would Be Happier If the Wife Were Earning a Little Money, says Julia Hoyt.

Let us take, for example, a mother who is qualified to do secretarial work and whose children are old enough to go to school. She can go to a bureau for part-time employment and get an engagement as secretary for mornings—from nine until one, for instance. There are many charitable organizations, etc., which need a secretary only for mornings. Her husband probably must be at his office by nine, and the children must be at school at the same hour. She can either prepare the lunch the night before, or get up a little earlier and do it in the morning. This will leave nothing to do but heat it or do some quick cooking on her return from work. Any necessary ordering for the afternoon meal can quite easily be done before she leaves for the office, or she can buy what she wants that afternoon.

A mother situated in the same way and qualified as an accompanist can always find employment in a studio.

For those who have no talent, or are not qualified to be secretaries, there is quite a demand for seamstresses and maids for half days. In fact, if one did not wish to go out every day, she could very easily find employment in this manner two or three times a week. It is also possible to do dressmaking at home, if she is not able to leave for any reason.

For the woman who is forced to take more than just part-time work, there is a way for her to be carefree and happy about her child. Day nurseries are splendid insitutions and if you have not enough of them in your city, I should advise you to help found some more. A mother can leave her baby in the morning on her way to work—confident it will be well taken care of—and call for it on her way home in the evening. It does not seem to me that she need feel in any way that she is slighting or neglecting her child, as the child will be at least as well cared for as at home. It is too young as yet to appreciate the company of its mother, and the mother is earning necessary money for the child's future.

I come into contact with many people who profess to wish to do something but who devise reasons why whatever is suggested is impossible for them to do. As a matter of fact, provided we have the desire and the willingness to sacrifice our leisure, and take the trouble to organize our days intelligently we all of us can find something to do.

Undoubtedly the woman who has had the good fortune to receive some training in her youth will find the question much easier to solve, and in this day of high prices there are many families which I feel quite sure would be happier and more peaceful if the wife were earning a little money.

There are husbands who still cling to the old idea that it would be a disgrace for their wives to go out and earn money. It seems to me that this is very short-sighted, both for their wives' as well as their children's sakes, and is really merely a matter of false pride on the man's part. Is it not better for his wife and children to have more money to live on and to take care of their future even tho it is partly earned by the wife than for her to scheme and worry in order that he shall have the satisfaction of saying "I am supporting them?"

We have surely gone beyond that in this day of action on the part of women, and who is there that can honestly say there is anything to be ashamed of in a young man's not being able to earn sufficient money to keep his wife and two or three children comfortably, with rents, food and clothes what they are. The wife and husband are supposed to be helpmates. He does not feel ashamed of her cooking, washing and caring for the children, which is in itself an earning power. Why then should he feel ashamed at her using outside of the home other earning power she may possess?

If she has a young baby to take care of, which prevents her leaving her home at all during the day, she can sew or embroider, make garments or accessories which are saleable. Undoubtedly she will need a little initiative and patience to get started in such a business but these qualities are needed in anything she may undertake.

DAD AND MOTHER IN JAIL

Chrastil Children Scattered While Parents Serve Sentence for Hooch Making.

A fine and jail sentence imposed on Ben Chrastil and his wife for alleged distilation of certain spiirts, intended as a punishment for crime only, has brokn up the entire family.

Saturday morning Judge Frost "disposed" of four of the six Chrastil children by sending them to the home of a married sister. The other two are being held at the detention home with no disposition in sight.

The mother and father, whose farm is near Hallam, were ifned $500 each and given sixty day jail sentences by District Judge Shepherd, Wednesday. According to county officers, this is the second time the Chrastils have been apprehended for bootlegging.

VICTORY MEANS CONFLICT.

BERLIN, April 12.—Victory of the German fascisti in the reichstag elections May 4 will mean a slow but sure growth of preparation for war against France. The fascisti—nationalists and folkists—openly advocate reintroduction of compulsory military training. The fact that the Versailles treaty forbids such training does not cause the folkists to grow any grey hairs, for they say that the Versailles treaty is an abomination of which they soon intend to be rid.

25 YEARS AGO TODAY

Prosperity seemed to have arrived, and Lincoln and the surrounding towns were humming with work. Carpenters were busy everywhere at high wages and helpers were so short they had to be paid twice the wages they received a year before.

E. R. Sizer received the appointment of collector of customs at the port of Havana. Mr. Sizer started to Cuba to investigate the climate and duties of the office.

Owners of suburban real estate were beginning to feel an interest in life again. Lots that had been dead for seven years had been sold at encouraging figures.

Harry S. Lippincott, formerly connected with the State Journal company, had been very successful in New York. He was vice president and director of the Pauly Jail Building and Manufacturing Co.

A. S. Kennedy, better known as "Snapper" left for Syracuse, N. Y., to play ball the coming season with the eastern league.

The city improvement society chose the following officers: Mrs. W. G. L. Taylor, president; Mrs. M. D. Welch, first vice president; Mrs. Nellie M. Richardson, secretary. The society advised a campaign for cleanliness in Lincoln to ward off disease.

SHARP NOTE TO FRANCE

RUSSIANS OBJECT TO INTERFERENCE IN SPIES' TRIAL.

Make Reply to Premier Poincare Who Asked Clemency for Alleged Spies on Humanitarian Grounds.

MOSCOW, April 12.—Russia today sent a sharpe note to France, "rejecting indignantly" the latter's interference in the trial of anti-soviet spies at Kieff.

The Russian note was in reply to one from Premier Poincare in which the French premier urged clemency for the alleged spies on humanitarian grounds.

Georges Tchitcherin, soviet foreign minister did not mince words in his reply. He declared France had committed a hostile act.

"The soviet government rejects indignantly the attempt of the French government to interfere in the trial," he wrote. "This is contrary to the most elementary respect for the sovereignty of other countries.

"The French government, moreover is well aware of the criminal work of the Kieff accused.

"Because these Kieff spies were in contact with the French intelligence service, now France attempts to protect her own spies under a mask of humanity.

"This is a hostile act. It comes in addition to other hostile acts, for example the sanctioning by France of the annexation of Bessarabia by Rumania and prevention of Chino-Russian understanding.

"The soviet government is surprised that the French government disregards the feeling its deeds are creating among the Russian masses who have not forgotten their sufferings and the damage caused by French interventions.

"Now they see that the French government, contrary to other western powers, continues its hostile policy against the soviet union.

"The soviet government disregards attempts to interfere in the competency of Russian courts, but watches French acts closely.

"The soviet government repeatedly has declared its willingness to negotiate a Franco-Russian agreement and notes that France not only does not meet this effort but has recently increased her hostile policy."

The note concludes by saying that Russia is convinced that "an overwhelming majority of the French population will force its government towards the pathway of understanding with soviet Russia."

GIVEN A DOLLAR VERDICT

Lorena Aten Receives One-Ten-Thousandth of Request for Destroyed Dog Business.

Lorena Aten received a $1 verdict against S. O. Lovell in the district court late Friday evening in her suit against Humane Officer McLain and S. O. Lovell, constable at College View.

Mrs. Aten in her suit asked $10,000 damages, alleged to have been incurred by her when the officers removed a number of dogs from her premises, against her will. Mrs. Aten claimed that she was in the business of raising pure bred dogs and that the act of the officers had completely ruined her business.

The jury in its verdict dismissed the action against the humane officer and assessed $1 damages against Lovell because he was alleged to have appeared without a warrant.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Are a Harmless Substitute.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel.

The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Headaches, "dullness," and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "logy" and "heavy." They "clear" clouded brain and "perk up" the spirits. 15c and 30c.—Adv.

Moral and spiritual development together with a more sympathetic understanding of my fellow men, is to me the greatest benefit I derive from church attendance."

WOOL SITUATION FAVORABLE

World Production Below Normal and Demand Expected to Increase Substantially.

The wool situation is distinctly favorable to producers, according to A. E. Anderson, government statistician.

World production is below normal and information indicates lower world production this year according to surveys of the division of crop and livestock estimates. World stocks are low.

While wool production in the United Stated in 1923 was 50,000,000 pounds below the pre-war average, it was slightly above the 1922 production. A slightly larger crop is expected this year. However, since the country produces only 10 per cent of the world crop of wool foreign production has a decided influence on domestic prices.

World wool production is 600,000,000 pounds below the pre-war averagew hich is about equal to the requirements here, as the country consumes about 25 per cent of the world production. World production last year was 66,000,000 pounds below 1922. Information from leading exporting countries indicates a smaller wool cro pthis year.

World wool stocks are low. The enormous supplies held by the British-Australian Wool Realization association decreased from 913,000 bales to 209,000 bales during 1923. South American and Australian stocks are very low and the United States stocks the lowest since 1917.

Not only in the immediate trend of production of wool downward but world production is considerable below pre-war production. The future demand for wool rather than for mutton, is the basis of suggesting some expansion in the sheep industry. However, since the country produces only 10 per cent of the world supply and prices depend on foreign production, products should watch foreign wool produtcion very closely. It is well to remember that all over-supply of mutton reacts sharply on price, due to the limited market as compared with other meats.

WHEELER SAYS COOLIDGE'S BASIS IS POLITICS.

Declares President Does Not Have Viewpoint of Welfare of Nation —Paints Daugherty as Rich From Office.

CHICAGO, April 12.—Senator Burton K. Wheeler, leader of the senate Daugherty investigating committee, today accused President Coolidge of being "incapable" and "looking at everything with purely a political standpoint instead of the welfare of the people of the nation."

Wheeler, referring to the senatorial investigations said:

"The president's lack of action in all these matters has shown the country he is incapable of dealing with the situation, which demands a forceful leader that will drive from office in Washington, all those who have been guilty of corruption or have taken part in the gigantic conspiracies carried on in the last few years by crooked politicians and big business.

"The trouble with Coolidge is that he is looking at everything with a purely political standpoint instead of the welfare of the people of the nation."

Wheeler attacked former Attorney General Daugherty "as a man entirely unfitted for the office he held." He painted Daugherty as a poor man when he entered office three years ago and now as "a man dealing in Sinclair and steel stocks and owning stock in the Wright-Martin Airplane corporation."

Wheeler reiterated that the senate Daugherty committee should continue because "the country demands, I think, that our committee show up this vicious system that has grown up in Washington of using the department of justice as a collection agency."

Wheeler charged that the Columbus, O., gang became rich along with Harry Daugherty.

Commenting on his sub-committee hearing at Washington Court House, O., from which he is returning to Washington, Wheeler said that Mal Daugherty, brother of the former attorney general, whom they have been investigating at Washington Court House, would be "before the bar of the senate" Monday when hearings are resumed.

"If he doesn't testify we can put him in jail," Wheeler said.

Wheeler will leave here tomorrow for Washington.

LINCOLN HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

Try-outs for representatives to the extempore speaking contest to be held at Nebraska Wesleyan university April 25 will be held Wednesday, April 16, according to an announcement made Friday by H. P. Shepherd, principal. The contest at Wesleyan will be one of the events in the series of academic contests held annually on high school day of the university. The topic for extempore speaking this year is "The Enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment." Last year the subject was on the success of the League of Nations, first place being won by George Johnson, who was a junior in Lincoln high school. Lincoln won four other first places in the nine events last year. Twenty schools participated. Lincoln high school entering eighty students in the various contests.

Lincoln debaters will meet the University Place team in a debate to be held Monday, April 14, in the Lincoln high school auditorium. Lincoln will take the affirmative, being represented by Otho DeVilbiss, Donald Underwood and Evert Hunt. University Place was the district champion last year, defeating Lincoln by a two to one decision.

A directory of Lincoln high school is being prepared under the supervision of the student council. It will include information regarding all organizations of the high school; publications, athletics, school songs and yells, and the constitution of the student council and the Nebraska high school athletic association. A special feature will be a complete list of members of the faculty classified under the various departments. The directory is expected to be printed by the first of May.

Lincoln high school is one of the few in the United States having a system of weighted credits. By this system the student who does ninety to one hundred per cent work receives more credit hours than the student who make grades between eighty and ninety per cent, and the eighty to ninety per cent student has a corresponding advantage over the student whose work is below eighty. Five hours credit is given students who make satisfactory grades; that is, from eighty to eighty-nine per cent. This is considered full credit. Weighted credit is given students making grades of above ninety per cent. Five and one-half hours is given ninety to ninety-five per cent students, and six hours credit to ninety-six to one hundred per cent students. Beside the grade requirement, students who receive weighted credits must have made distinguished achievement in the work of the class, and show progress and initiative.

The high school annual junior-senior olympics will be held May 16 in the high school stadium. In previous years this traditional contest between the two upper classes has been held at the State Fair grounds, but last fall the high school stadium was completed, and it is planned to have all future olympic contests in it. The Olympics is an organized athletic contest between the two classes and takes the place of the old class fights and "skip days."

GARDENS AND GARDENING—V. Balanced Rations.

Seeing to it that cabbages, strawberries and tomatoes have well-balanced and ample supplies of foodstuffs, as if cabbages were pigs or puppies, may be merely unusual. But to carry the comparison to roses, mignonettes, forget-me-nots! Nevertheless, the good gardener thinks on this question: How are my speaking but silent friends of the soil provided with available yet not poisonously large amounts of nitrogen, phosphorus, potassium and perhaps other elements?

For he knows that though the soil through natural processes supplies a considerable fraction of the amount of food materials necessary to give him a lush garden, he also knows that a garden that takes on a famine look is no garden—merely a disappointing "patch." So instead of buying skim-milk powder, beef scrap and dog biscuit, he sets himself to laying in a supply of "fertilizers"—plant foods.

Prior to this he studies the soil, the crop needs, the possibilities of the several fertilizers supplementing the soil resources to give, where it is desired, tender, crisp quality, high color of flower or fruit, earliness or lateness, long stalk or sturdy—in a word, special quality of root, stem, foliage, fruit and seed.

Nitrogen available in large amounts to plants usually means rapid sappy growth with a tendency to lodge; crisp, deep green, abundant foliage; slow, late flowering and ripening. These tendencies, due to abundance of nitrogen, are favorable when nitrogen is supplied skilfully. However, there is danger in this program if plant diseases are not controlled. There is real danger of supplying too much nitrogen.

Phosphorus in abundance and available tends to promote as rapid and extensive a root spread of plants as nitrogen does of the above-ground parts. It tends to bring plants into early maturity. It probably has considerable to do with improving the composition of vegetables in their food role of "bone builders" for the gardener and family.

Potassium is necessary in the plant's diet to effect starch formation, and this for other carbohydrates. If we take corn at the table-corn stage, carbohydrates represent three-fourths of its dry weight. Any element that is necessary to the effective combining in the plant's miracle laboratory of carbon dioxide from the air and water from the soil into three-fourths of the food in one of our chief garden crops is entitled to consideration.

Besides this, potassium is looked to as strengthening stems, favoring the development of legumes and increasing the resistance of every kind of plant to attacks of diseases.

The foregoing three elements are not merely essential, as are seven others, but are frequently critical ones. Others that may become critical, i. e., markedly deficient, are calcium and sulphur, rarely iron or magnesium.

To supply the soil with the critical elements the stand-by fertilizer for gardeners is well-rotted manure. As a balanced ration for lettuce it carries fair amounts of nitrogen and potassium, but about one-fifth enough phosphorus. To supply enough phosphorus then we shall have to provide five times the requisite amount of the very expensive element nitrogen. However, manure supplies organic matter even if it may bring into the soil weeds, insect pests and plant diseases.

This brings us sharply to consider commercial fertilizers, if not as the source of all the plant foods we supply, then as our resource for balancing or supplementing animal manures. However, it is well to recall that garden plants make no discrimination as to source of food elements showing utter indifference to the source of nitrogen, whether derived from manure, dried blood or nitrate of soda—provided in each case it is, let us add, in nitrate form. So if we can supply "humus" from green manure crops we may safely depend upon commercial fertilizers to supply us with weed-free, disease-free, insect-free plant foods.

There is no single fertilizer that supplies approximately a balanced ration of plant foods for every garden crop. If we take a complete (in that it supplies some of each of the three critical plant foods) commercial fertilizer, 5-8-10 (meaning 5 per cent. ammonia, 8 per cent. phosphoric acid and 10 per cent. potash), as a good balanced ration for lettuce and apply it at the rate of one ounce on a row 20 feet long and 16 inches wide we shall have applied it at about the usual rate of 1,000 pounds per acre.

This would be the main meal to be broadcast, raked in, immediately before planting. Then for "lunch," to insure brittle, fleshy leaves, apply every two weeks until harvest one-tenth of an ounce of nitrate of soda as a side dressing.

The gardener who will study this phase of gardening will have rich reward. Balancing rations for the ten or the ten times ten plant families represented in the garden, borders and lawn will prove valuable only after physical conditions of the soil have been made right. Fertilizers never so carefully and abundantly supplied can make up to garden plants for poor soil air, inadequate soil water supply, low soil temperature, poor structure Poor soil condition means relatively low fertilizer efficiency.

In Your Neighbor's Melon Patch.

There is a certain Chinese proverb which I find myself thinking of about once in so often:

"Do not stoop to tie your shoe when you are going thru your Neighbor's melon patch or put up your hand to fix your hat when you are passing thru his peach orchard."

I thought of that the other day when I heard a friend of mine telling about the country club in the town to which she has moved.

Too Busy Playing Mah Jongg.

It is a favorite subject of hers—this club. A very fast set, she says, belong to it. The kind of women who never have anything to do but play bridge or mah jongg at the club all day. "Mrs. Chandler's children simply run wild, they're the terror of the neighborhood, but she doesn't seem to care. She's too busy playing mah jongg at the club."

As for the men, they are a stupid fast set without a thought in their heads outside of poker and golf and business and what they can get to drink.

One of the women members was mentioned lately in a suit for alienation of the affections and the last time I saw my friend she was full of that. "It just shows what kind of people they are," she said.

Now it may be that everything she says comes straight from her heart and that there is no emotion mixed up in her feeling toward them other than an honest dislike for their frivolity and their aimlessness.

Of Course She Would Never Belong!

But when one hears her talking one cannot help remembering the fact that this club is said to be very hard to get into.

Of course there may not be a trace of envy in her heart. But wouldn't it be better if she would not act in a way that inevitably arouses that suspicion?

Just as there is no reason on earth why one shouldn't tie one's shoes in one's neighbor's melon patch—except how it looks.

I know a woman whose husband writes a certain type of short story. We were speaking the other day of several writers who write in a similar vein. She had something critical to say of each. This one was so cheap, that one so hackneyed, and wasn't it too bad that the other couldn't do dialogue decently. Presently we spoke of a man who does another type of story. Then her tone changed abruptly. She actually spoke cordially of his work.

Tie Your Shoe Somewhere Else.

I have another friend whose husband is an artist. When the works of other artists are discussed she will either praise or be silent. I objected once that she could not possibly like them all. "No," she said, "but I would much rather keep still than have people think what they would if I ran down some other artist."

Of course what people think is often unjustified. You can defy it if you prefer. But isn't it more sensible to take some other time to straighten your hat or tie your shoe?

PROVISIONS NOT PRACTICAL

Tariff Commissioner Reports to Ways and Means Committee on McNary-Haugen Bill.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—The tariff commission today reported to the ways and means committee that the tariff provisions of the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill were impracticable and would cause a general dislocation of tariff rates.

The committe recently asked the tariff commission to study the bill and report its effect.

The bill would authorize the secretary of agriculture to proclaim prohibitive tariff rate on basic agricultural products.

Ill Feeling.

The scofflaw hates the spigot-bigot who closes all the Rum Hole doors, and fain would see him in a frigate departing from these dusty shores. The spigot-bigot grows sarcastic when to the scofflaw he alludes, invoking penalties so drastic they kindle new and fiercer feuds. "Let dogs delight," remarked a writer, "to bark and bite—they're built that way; but men should be a lot politer—should shun and not invite the fray." Why can't the spigot-bigot chortle when bidding Barleycorn aroint, and putting padlocks on the portal of Charley's Place and Jimmie's Joint? Why can't the scofflaw curb his passion when he surveys the other's games? Why paw the earth in futile fashion, and call the spigot-bigot names? Oh, spigot-bigots, cease to quarrel, with smiles pursue your useful toil; the work you do is highly moral, when it's not marred by scrap and broil. You close the joints where peril lingers, you burn the still and lock the dump, and gents who suffer for three fingers must get refreshments at the pump! Om, scofflaws, all the luck's against you, your goose is cooked, you have no chance; the statutes dry have hedged and fenced you, but be good sports and sing and dance.

ANGERED BY JAP ENVOY

SENATORS HOPE TO PASS JAP EXCLUSION ACT.

Believe It Would Be Rebuke to Foreign Meddling in Domestic Affairs, Following Hanihari's Protest.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—Angered by threat of Ambassador Hanihara that "grave consequences" would follow enactment of the Japanese exclusion feature of the immigration bill, senators today hoped to force the adoption of the provision as a prompt rebuke to what they regard as "foreign meddling in domestic affairs."

Nothing in recent months has so stirred congress as the bristling diplomatic terms employed by the Japanese ambassador in his letter of protest to Secretary Hughes. Senators are equally annoyed by the soft language used by Hughes in his acknowledgement of the protest.

Senator Hiram Johnson, California, was thoroly aroused and announced that he would take the floor today to reply to the ambassador and to rebuke Hughes. Pacific coast senators particulary regard Hughes' attitude in the matter as a deliberate attempt to "lobby" against the Japanese exclusion provision.

Senator Shortridge, California, one of the leading advocates of the exclusion provision, believes sufficient votes can be mustered to adopt the provision. A group of southern democrats, however, are planning to oppose it as a rebuke to Shortridge for his support of the anti-lynching bill and the confirmation of Walter L. Cohen, negro, comptroller of the port of New Orleans.

DISCREDIT MAN'S TALE

Kansas City Prisoner Tells of Trying to Obtain German Propaganda Money.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 12.—A man giving the name of Lowell K. Swartz, Akron, O., held by authorities here on charges of writing a worthless check told a fantastic story of efforts to obtain possession of $3,000,000 in German propaganda money in banks in this country after the war.

The prisoner said he killed a German spy in Italy and seized papers from him which revealed whereabouts of the money.

When he returned to this country he said the papers were sought by many persons who finally obtained them from him under threats of arrest. Swartz then said he became a messenger collecting the spy money for American officials. Because he had told too much about the scheme, Swartz said his second wife, Helen V. Lolsbun was killed in St. Paul in 1922. The records of her death show she committed suicide, he said.

Swartz told of now operating a swindling and check forging scehme for two bankers in Ohio. Officials believed his story was impossible.

URGES TRIAL OF GOD'S WAY

"Among the Tombs" or "Have You Tried God's Way?" was discussed by Dr. Ray E. Hunt at the pre-Easter meeting at the First Christian church Friday evening. The story of Jesus curing the man possessed of demons by using God's way after all other means had failed, as found in Mark 5:1-15, was the background of the discussion. Dr. Hunt said in part:

"It is the prerogative of every man to try any way of life he wishes. In the long struggle of man's race upward, men have tried many ways of life and have had many guide posts but I suggest that the New Testament is the safest of all guides. The New Testament or Jesus' way of life means a sacrificial life, it means living in this world as if we were citizens of another world. It means that we shall believe in the re-creation of the heart and of the affections. It means love your enemies.

What is it we want in the world? First of all we want happiness which we think is the satisfaction of our desires. This may be true or it may not be. No man is happy unless the satisfaction of his desires brings an inward place to his soul. Force cannot accomplish this, knowledge cannot accomplish this, there must be a sense of morality. There is something wrong with the world, something wrong with ourselves. We have gone hither and yon, we have been restless and impatient, and perhaps there yet remains God's way. Christianity has been called the untried religion, because while we have repeated the words we have not tried to inculcate his spirit into our hearts. Why not try God's way?"

THE LOVE THAT LASTS

BY FAY STEVENSON

Facing the Future.

Altho orders for lampshades continued to pour in for Elaine, her husband was still unsuccessful in landing a new position. Many of the women who gave Elaine orders to paint shades for them kept her waiting for her money. It was a very usual thing for them to say, in just a few days, Elaine, my allowance will be due and then I'l send you a check. That will be all right, dearie, won't it?"

Several times when Elaine hinted that she needed the money the women would say, "But, my dear, I haven't but pin money. I'm cutting down everything now on household expenses, so you'll simply have to wait a few days!"

Creditors finally took the dining room furniture and while Elaine wept bitter tears, Billy smoked ten cigarets and paced the apartment so many hours that people in the lower suite pounded on the walls.

"The only thing for us to do is to move to another apartment and buy another set of dining room furniture on the instalment plan," announced Billy, suddenly coming into the room where Elaine was painting upon one of her numerous shades "I told you we would come to this!"

But the next day the creditors took the living room furniture. The rent upon the apartment was due and life looked almost unbearable for the Barringtons. Their boudoir suite and the kitchen utensils were the only household furniture they possessed.

Altho Betty offered them the hospitality of her father's home, Elaine and Betty were too independent to accept any such temporary favors.

"If necessary we'll go to a rooming house and live in one attic room," laughed Billy, "and I'll get a job as a grocery clerk."

"Remember, I told you it would be no easy matter to be a taxicab driver," warned Elaine, "and now, let me tell you that being a grovery clerk is no unskilled job. You have to start as a grocery boy, and I beliveve a boy of thirteen could beat you to it!"

They joked about poverty, and thru it all they found a certain amount of compensation—that of being pals and good losers. They did not quarrel nor did they haggle. If Elaine had been paid for her lampshades they enjoyed a good dinner; if women held her up and begged her to wait until their allowance came in they dined on crackers and cheese and tea from the kitchen table.

Many of their former friends deserted them. This left them more time for themselves. Betty Dana was their constant caller. At times Betty even shared their poverty and dined upon simple fare. Elaine had perfect confidence in both Betty and Billy and was beginning to think every spark of the old flame dead until one night Betty said:

'Elaine, I met Ben Tarbel today and he's a widower! His wife died suddenly last week!" There was a woman to woman glance which passed between them—it said, "Now what will fate do with us?"

WINTER WHEAT CROP IN GOOD CONDITION

Reported at 91 Per Cent, as in December, and Big Crop Forecast—Decrease in Spring Sows Is Considerable.

Winter wheat maintained its high condition. Brood sows decreased 12 per cent. Farm wages average $40. Farm work was retarded, and labor supply above demand until recently. This is the summary of the April crop report released Saturday by the division of crop and livestock estimates.

The condition of winter wheat is 91 per cent, the same as in December. It was 64 per cent a year ago. The season was highly favorable with plenty of soil moisture which reduced winter injury to the minimum. Last year, the soil was extremely dry, and not only was the condition low, but the abandonment heavy.

The condition of rye is 93 per cent against 95 per cent in December and 74 per cent a year ago. Heavy snows last month were very favorable.

Spring brood sows on farms were reduced 12 per cent. This follows a 13.5 per cent reduction in sows farrowing last autumn. Brood sows number 850,000 head as compared to 966,000 head a year ago.

Farm wages average $40 with board. The labor supply was 95 per cent and the demand 93 per cent, indicating that the supply was 2 per cent above the demand, April 1. However, since then the demand became greater. The weather was not favorable for farm field work previous to April, and in general the spring farm work has not progressed to the usual stage for this date.

The condition of winter wheat in the United States is 83 per cent, against 88 per cent December 1, and 75.2 per cent a year ago and the ten-year average of 82.5 per cent. The present condition forecasts a crop of 549,415,000 bushels on the assumption of the average abandonment. Last year's crop was 572,340,000 bushels. The condition of rye is 83.5 per cent as compared to 81.8 per cent a year ago, and the forecast, 59,135,000 bushels against 63,023,000 bushels last year.

Brood sows for the Untied States were reduced 10.8 per cent. There was a reduction of 8.7 per cent in sows farrowing last autumn. Farm wages with board average $33.11. Farm labor supply is 8 per cent below the demand.

DAVID HAS A CHAT WITH A SELFISH LITTLE ANIMAL.

"STAND there and stare if it gives you any pleasure," growled the cross animal behind the iron fence. "You're not the only one that has stared at me today."

"I beg your pardon if I seemed rude," said David, kindly. "I really meant no harm. I just wondered what you are. I don't believe I've ever seen an animal like you before. That's all. I'll go if I disturb you." And David started to leave, when the strange animal called him back.

"There, there boy, I'm the rude one, I guess," he laughed. "Forgive me. I'm sorry. The fact is, I'm such a disagreeable fellow I haven't a friend on earth. I think even the keeper of this place dislikes me."

"Perhaps it's because you dislike him," suggested David, who was interested in the strange creature, in spite of himself. "What are you, anyway? Where did you come from?"

"Well, in the Far North, where I came from, they call me Carcajou, but here in your country they call me just plain old Glutton, because I'm forever eating and then never have enough."

"Maybe you eat too much and that makes you cross, so folks don't like you," laughed David. "That's the way I get when I eat too much dinner. But I should think you'd get homesick, and I know that might make a fellow cross. Once I was at Grandmother's——"

"H'm," interrupted Mr. Glutton, with a smothered growl. "Homesick for what? I hadn't a friend back in the Far North. I was so mean that no one liked me. But you seem a nice little boy. Just look me over, then if you see another glutton, you'll know him." And he turned around and around so that David could get a good view of him.

He was about three feet long, with a tail about six inches long, thick and heavy, with shaggy hair. His legs were short and quite stout, and when he walked he set them down just as Buster Brown Bear does.

"What Are You, Anyway?"

"I'm not much to look at," he laughed, "but I make up for it in strength and cunning. You may not believe it, but back at home I used to follow the men who went through the woods setting traps to catch animals, and dig out their traps and eat the bait. I've even torn the traps up and carried them off into the woods and buried them so that the trappers couldn't find them.

"They don't hunt my relatives so much for our fur, though it is quite valuable, they tell me, but more to get rid of us. I'm really lucky to be here. But here I am, with regular meals and nothing to do but mosey back and forth, so folks can see what a glutton looks like."

Just then the keeper tossed a big piece of meat in to Mr. Glutton, and instead of thanking him, he growled crossly.

"No wonder the woodfolks hated him," said David to himself and he hurried on out of the zoo. The next time he went there he failed to call on cross old Mr. Glutton.

MY HUSBAND'S LOVE

Adele Garrison's New Phase of

Revelations of a Wife

Copyright, 1924, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

The Amazing Favor Mrs. Marks Begged of Madge.

MECHANICALLY I rose from my chair and bade the hurrying Mrs. Marks good-by. From somewhere I pumped up a smile and an apparently cordial invitation to come again, as I closed the door after her.

For a long time I stood motionless, trying to reconstruct my opinions which my neighbor's talk had shattered.

Every conjecture I had made concerning Dicky and Mollie Fawcett had been confirmed. She was the girl who had bound up his head when he had been wounded in some mysterious adventure. He had come up to the city as soon as I had left to see her and his treatment of Mrs. Marks had changed from a supercilious tolerance to cordial neighborliness.

And yet, curiously enough, her rough praise of Dicky and her emphatic assurance that I would have approved his action of that night, quieted my suspicions and changed the current of my thought.

I found myself wishing that I had not been so caustic in my language to my husband. Useless that wish now, however. It would take some time, I knew, for Dicky to recover from the royal rage in which he had rushed out of the apartment. That he was not irrevocably angry, I knew as well as that some time before midnight he would telephone to see if Lillian had arrived.

Madge Is Remorseful.

I am not especially timid, yet there is something about the house which makes me dislike remaining in our apartment alone all night. Dicky not only knows this, but on his own account cherishes a strong disapproval of our enforced habitation. And while I knew that just now he was so angry that he mentally could consign me to all sorts of mediaeval tortures, yet a little later his innate chivalry would spur him to make sure that I was not left alone.

The reflection was salutary for me. It made my remorse for my own harsh words overshadow the remembrance of my husband's equally offensive vocabulary. But, above all else, I felt a load lifted from my heart.

I had not dared to look squarely at the things my own jealous imagination was picturing until the homely gossip of Mrs. Marks changed the aspect of the circumstances altogether. I might have cause for uneasy heartache in the future. I could not contemplate with equanimity the coming association of my husband and Mollie Fawcett when he should transfer her exquisite and unusual loveliness to his drawing board, but just now, thanks to my flamboyant neighbor, I was comparatively at peace.

"You'll Help Me, Won't You?"

Suddenly I felt very tired—almost exhausted—mentally and physically. I looked at my wrist watch, and estimated that Lillian would not get to the apartment for another two hours at least. I would have time for a good refreshing sleep before she came. I knew the signal she always gives—two long rings, separated by a short one—and as I crept into bed, after securely locking the doors of the living room and bedroom, I resolved that no other ring should receive the slightest attention from me.

I was sound asleep almost immediately, and came back with the sensation of being lifted from a deep gulf. Insistent in my ears was the shrilling of the doorbell, the prolonged, steady ring of some one keeping a finger uninterruptedly upon the bell and nearer still, outside my bedroom door, was an agonized whisper:

"Mis' Graham! Mis' Graham. Oh, for goodness sake, dearie, open the door!"

It was the voice of Mrs. Marks, and there was such terror in it that I sprang from bed and, unlocking my bedroom door, threw it open.

I shrank back in terrified astonishment at first, for what rushed past me into the room looked, in the dim light, like some immense, shaggy animal. Then a pile of something dark was heaved over on my bed and Mrs. Marks's face, ashen where the rouge did not mask it, stared into mine.

"Dearie, you'll help me, won't you?" she pleaded, dragging open my wardrobe doors and turning to the bed again. "Please help me hang these things up. They'll never think of looking in here—swell folks like you that can prove what you are!"

HOME-MAKING HELPS

Here Are New Ways to Treat Materials for Fine Curtains

By WANDA BARTON

CURTAINS are always of interest and any new wrinkle is bound to receive consideration in schemes of decoration.

Quite new and unusual are the heavy net glass curtains, that are hung the full length of the window under the shade, embroidered with wools. The work is done in conventionalized flowers in colors to match the decorations of the room, or the outer hangings.

For instance, glass curtains embroidered in yellow daffodils show through the outer curtains of ruffled net that hang under yellow sunfast draperies, natural pongee, mercerized cotton rep, or any of the other drapery materials. The colorful embroidery peeping through lends an added decorative value to the color scheme.

Another odd fancy is the use of the plain wooden pole that is neatly covered with a piece of the outer hanging. This bands the top of the casement with the color instead of leaving the appearance of a wide separation between the side hangings. The brass rings are slipped over the pole, or wooden rings are painted with enamel to match, which is rather smarter than the brass.

Ruffled curtains are the fad of the moment. They are especially lovely in the thinner materials. As many as ten or twelve narrow ruffles two inches wide are run across the width above the hem, the space of a tiny hem apart, and the same are repeated across the top. They are very effective in thin chintz, silk, muslin and fine net. Another new note is to have a band of colored satin ribbon run through the hems of net glass curtains where embroidery does not appear. This is varied by the use of a gold or silver ribbon. The ribbons slip out and in easily when the curtains need to be laundered.

One very effective window in a black and white room had black Georgette glass curtains with silver ribbon run through the hems. The same material was used for the outer curtains, the silver ribbon being run through the side hems that were edged with narrow silver fringe. The outer draperies were of black taffeta embroidered with silver-thread motifs.

The effect was striking and as the room was sunny the black did not appear somber. The rug was dove gray, the furniture black wicker with gray and silver upholstery with a bit of black in it, the day-bed held enough wistaria, yellow, sage green and purple cushions to light the dullness if it were present.

Draperies of the straight Eastlake cut are popular in linens embroidered in white or self colors. It costs but little to do them at home and as the work is coarse, done with the heavy floss, it goes quickly and is very effective when finished. Sometimes the curtains are plain and only the broad ties are embroidered. If one is an expert in stencil work many wonderful effects may be obtained with the linens. Batik and block printing is also an effective means of decoration.

Casement cloth, a closely-woven fabric in cotton or wool, is occasionally found with a silk stripe which makes it very pretty for draperies and modest in price. Armure is in either cotton or artificial silk. It is also mercerized, with an overshot design in polka dots or figures in self coloring. The material is wide and not expensive.

SYMBOLS

WHY is it that the real secrets of life sometimes find their best expression, not in detailed explanation, but in symbols? There's something strangely intimate, too, about a symbol—especially if it's a heart symbol shared by only two of all the myriad millions in the world—it seems to COMPLETE the romance! Why, the RIGHT symbol can make even a dream a reality, and cause to seem a solid fact, the most evanescent and otherwise fleeting instant. Ah, half the magic lies in the correct choice of the symbol, doesn't it?

WINIFRED BLACK WRITES ABOUT Flowers in the Dark

Copyright, 1924, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Winifred Black

WELL, what do you think I found on the balcony this morning?—hyacinths, deep blue and creamy white and one of the deepest rose. No, not in the window box and not in a basket or in a bouquet sent by some loving heart to bring the promise of the Spring.

In quite a different place they were, very different indeed.

An old cask stands in the corner of the balcony shaded from the sun, and in that cask are the little garden tools that belong to the long window box and the attention to it, and when I stooped to get out a trowel—not because the window box really needed the trowel, but because I wanted to get my hands into the black earth for a few minutes—there, smiling up from the dark old cask, were the hyacinths, blooming in the dark.

Neglected and forgotten—the bulbs were there.

"In the Spring——"

I put them away myself with great care last Fall.

"In the Spring," I thought, "we'll have some hyacinths." And then Winter came and the wind and the rain and from the balcony we could hear the great ships bawling through the fog and storm like herds of cattle coming plowing up the lane.

The eucalyptus tree below had a glorious Winter—he loves the wind, does the eucalyptus, and all the wind pranks and vagaries.

The yellow acacia and the weeping willow rather disapprove of Brother Boreas and his wild, rough ways; they crouch down and get away from his rude caresses as well as they can.

Yes, there were wild storms in the Winter, and in the Spring came the fog. And all the world was full of strange rumors.

New volcanoes lit their torches and terrified the astonished inhabitants.

Earthquakes shook the old world as a terrier shakes a frightened rat.

Wars and rumors of wars, battle, murder, sudden death, famine, pestilence, discord and misery.

And Spring Called

Yes, it was a sick old world and tired and worried—uprisings and revolutions, quarrels in the families of the nations, hatreds and old prejudices fanned into cruel flame—sometimes it was hard to understand how it would all come out.

And all at once—Spring stood upon the balcony and tapped at the glass in the long French windows.

"Let me in," said Spring. "I have come to visit you for a while." And lo! all the hills that were so brown and tawny like lions crouching in the storm were suddenly green and the yellow poppies began to blow and the old Chinaman called from down below, "Daffdills—vilets—spling flowr——"

And we went out on the balcony and watched the plants in the window garden take a long breath of rapture and start to grow.

And we forgot all about the hyacinths, never thought of them at all, left them in the dark old cask to wither and decay.

But the hyacinths had another notion.

They didn't care to wither, nor yet to decay, so they whispered to each other there in the dark and said, "Come on, let's grow anyway."

And here they are today, purple and cream white and deep rose—and when I set them in the window box with the rest of the Spring flowers, they nodded gaily and went right on growing, just as if we had taken care of them and cherished them as we had meant to do.

I wonder if somewhere in the gray and the dark some little kind word you or I have spoken to one in need of kindness will blossom suddenly into lovely flowers?

I wonder if some dark day we will find, you and I, to our surprise that something generous, and good that we did long and long ago is blooming for us unexpectedly, and will grace our lives like the hyacinths—all purple and cream, white and deep rose.

ODD and INTERESTING FACTS

The 30-mile boulevard leading from the imperial Summer palace at Nikko, Japan, to a near-by village, with stately Japanese cedar trees planted on both sides, towering 200 feet or more in the air, makes a deep impression upon the visitor. The legend regarding these trees has more than a passing interest. Several hundred years ago, it is said, the Emperor of Japan summoned all the noblemen of the country to his Summer palace, each one being requested to bring a gift. An impoverished nobleman, realizing that he could not make an adequate offering in gold, silver or precious stones, carried with him a sack of tree seeds, and planting the seeds on both sides of the highway made the remark that his gift would be the greatest blessing of them all and that his name would be remembered long after the gold and silver offerings of his colleagues had vanished.

To-day, many hundred years after the seeds were planted, thousands of persons are being benefited by these shade trees and the seeds from these original cedar trees have caused new trees to grow up in the neighborhood, which in turn have provided many generations with the material for the construction of homes.

Diary of a Fashion Model

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

She Describes a Beautiful Gown for Formal Dinners.

"OUR dinner gowns this season are among our very best numbers," Madame remarked with satisfaction.

She had just finished watching the seamstress put the last touches on a lovely model.

Gaby was acting as manikin, and she was enjoying herself hugely, strutting up and down the floor in the new frock.

"I think there's nothing in the world more fetching than black over flesh color," Gaby declared, as she waved her arm so the dainty cape floated out behind her.

"Yes," Madame agreed. "The beauty of black chiffon over flesh or black lace over flesh is hard to improve upon."

"Are you planning to have others that exploit this treatment?" I asked.

"I expect this model to be so well liked that I'll be forced to make others somewhat like it," Madame answered.

Just then a new client was ushered into the salon by one of the saleswomen.

"Mrs. Whiting would like a dinner gown, Madame," the saleswoman said, as she found a chair for the client.

"May I have another look at this adorable gown your manikin is wearing?" young Mrs. Whiting asked, all interest.

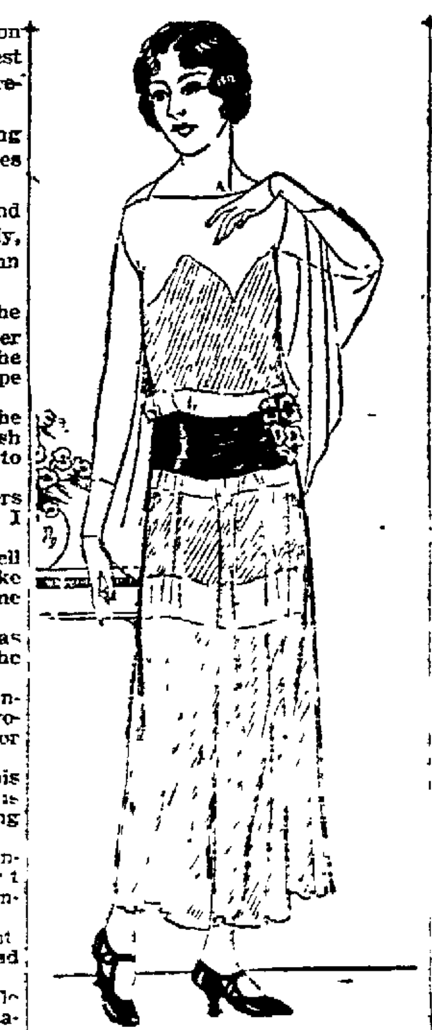
"Yes, you may," Madame informed her. "You're the first client to see it, as it has just been finished."

"How very unusual!" Mrs. Whiting exclaimed, as she held her head on one side.

"Madame, what makes that subtle pattern effect in the flesh foundation underneath?" she asked.

"Why, I've used the flesh charmeuse on both the dull and shiny sides, so that the yoke and a band through the waistline and through the skirt exploit the shiny surface, while the rest is dull," Madame explained.

"It gives a lovely effect, just showing through the chiffon as it does," Mrs. Whiting said approving.



The Novel Cape Treatment Adds an Unusual Touch to This Black Chiffon Gown.

"But the thing that catches my eye and make me want to simply walk off with the gown is that adorable cape treatment," Mrs. Whiting continued.

The cape was a layer of chiffon that fell from the shoulders of the sleeveless gown and was caught at either wrist by a deep band of the black chiffon.

"The effect of the wristbands, the floating cape and the sleeveless frock is stunning, indeed," Mrs. Whiting commented.

"May I be the first favored client to try on this beautiful frock?" she asked Madame with a smile.

I knew that a trial would mean she'd want to have one made like it and, sure enough, I was right.

"My! I shall have to hustle and sketch that pleated black lace over pleated flesh chiffon I've had in the back of my head," Madame said as she reached for her pencil.

YOUR HEALTH

What Nosebleed May Mean in Certain Cases

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
United States Senator from New York,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

DR COPELAND

ONE of the most annoying and inconvenient of small ailments is a sudden attack of bleeding from the nose.

You may be in the middle of an interesting conversation, or you may be hurrying to finish some important business, when—without the least warning—a red stream begins to trickle from your nose, and all else must be put aside while the emergency claims your entire attention.

Some persons are particularly susceptible to nosebleed. Indeed, in some families there seems to be a hereditary tendency to recurrent attacks. It may come on at any time of the day or night, without any apparent reason. They may awaken from sleep with blood pouring from the nose.

It is, however, never a serious condition.

"Epistaxis" is the name doctors give to bleeding from the nose, no matter whether it is due to an injury, such as a blow on the nose, or whether it is a symptom of some illness or other unhealthy condition.

Nasal catarrh is one of the commonest causes of nosebleed. Growing and anemic children are especially susceptible to the symptom.

Epistaxis is sometimes confounded with hemorrhage when the bleeding begins while the person is asleep and some of the blood is swallowed. In such a case it is quite natural for the blood to be vomited the next morning. The occurrence is likely to lead to unreasonable alarm, especially if the victim is a nervous or easily frightened person.

No matter what is the cause of the epistaxis, the first consideration must be to control it.

In most cases the bleeding stops of its own accord. If, however, it persists, there are simple measures that can nearly always be employed successfully.

Applications of cold water or of ice to the nose and back of the neck will check the bleeding in the majority of instances. If they do not, a very small amount of pulverized alum or tannic acid may be snuffed up the nose.

Rest is essential. The victim should lie down or sit in a comfortable chair with the head thrown back.

In rare cases it is necessary to have the nose plugged in order to stop the bleeding. Your doctor will do this for you, if it is advisable.

Recurrent attacks of epistaxis are sometimes due to an ulcer in the nasal septum. When this condition exists it may be necessary to have the ulcerated spot touched with a caustic or the live cautery. This can, of course, only be done by the doctor.

In any case of recurrent or violent bleeding from the nose do not delay to consult your doctor. He may save you much annoyance, valuable time and even suffering.

Advice to Girls

By ANNIE LAURIE.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a mother of two grown children, a son and a daughter, who are both very popular and have a wide circle of friends. They think I should entertain frequently for them. Now, as I am not very strong and unable to get help I cannot entertain as often as I would like. Both of them hold good and responsible positions and are very fond of having their friends enjoy home life with them.

My son sometimes teases me and tells me home is only a place to stay. This makes me very sensitive and as I would like to have him stay home at night, I would like to have you suggest something to make him contented. Now, as we have a large and modern home, with music of two kinds and all that should make home life pleasant, I am at a loss as to how I can get him to become interested in home, more. He is a very affectionate son, but just seems to like outside life.

When I entertain for my children they indulge in dancing which I do not like, so please suggest something else in the line of amusement when I entertain for them.

AFFECTIONATE MOTHER.

AFFECTIONATE MOTHER: Do not discourage your children from bringing their friends home. Encourage your son to bring his young friends to the house for dinner or to spend the evenings. Be just as young as they are. Make pals of your children and their friends. Find out their likes and dislikes and be as ready to enter into their schemes and fun as they themselves.

Most all young people dance nowadays and if you forbid it in your home, they may go out to dance, which would be more harmful than allowing them to do it at home where you can be with them. Just overcome your prejudice in this regard, and by encouraging your children to have their friends in their home, and not being too formal, you will find that they will make of you their confidante and best pal. Why not try a radio outfit to interest your son? Almost all boys are crazy about it now.

Annie Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. Letters to Miss Laurie should be addressed to her in care of this office.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

SUNDAY AND MONDAY, APRIL 13-14.

Sunday's horoscope is not propitious, holding possible danger through fire, loss or accident and forecasting trouble through quarrels or ill-temper. In affairs of a social or affectional nature better forces prevail.

Those whose birthday it is have the prospect of a year of danger, say the seers. They should be careful of their persons and property. Happy conditions may obtain in heart and home affairs. A child born on this day should be well disciplined.

Monday's astrological forecast is favorable for the fulfilment of the ambitions and for financial prospects. It would be well, however, to give close attention to attaching the signature to any sort of writing or document. Those whose birthday it is may have a prosperous year, but they should be careful in signing papers and contracts. A child born on this day will be successful and prosperous and will rise in life.

LATE NEWS OF YESTERDAY

NEUTRAL IN THE BATTLE

AGENTS DECIDE AGAINST ANY ILL-ADVISED ACTION.

Tell Warring Company Associations That They Ought to Settle Controversy in Public Interest.

With Joe Barker, leader of the militant faction, absent at the closing session of the convention of the state association of local insurance conservative counsels prevailed. Every agent present made it manifest he was opposed to the separation policy of the two big associations, but agreed that the association should go no further than insist upon their settling their controversy. The resolution finally adopted was as follows:

"Resolved, that it is with sincere regret that we note the Union and Western Bureau companies have not been able to find an equitable solution to their differences and feel that the interests of the insuring public are jeoparadized by a continuance of a controversy of this nature;

"That this association be on record as expressing a vote of confidence in the untiring efforts of our national association officers in so unselfishly laboring in our behalf to bring about an amicable adjustment of the differences between the two company organizations involved.

"We further feel that this is not the time for hasty or ill-advised action and that the attitude of the members of this association be that of complete neutraliy.

"It is further resolved that this association reiterate again its stand on the ownership of expirations;

"That all agents who may acquire new agency connections observe the ethics of our business in not soliciting the business of their fellow agent who may have lost a company representative and that the influence of this association be exerted to assist its members in protecting their expirations under this platform and that the association will welcome any report of the violation by any company or special agent of the platform on ownership of expirations as expressed by both the union and bureau organizations."

Omaha withdrew from the contest for the place of holding the 1925 convention, and Grand Island's invitation was unanimously accepted. The following officers were elected:

President, C. T. Flower, Grand Island.

Vice presidents, John Lavoni, Sidney; Joe Steele, Fairbury; P. H. Davis, Norfolk, and John Guthrie, Alliance.

Secretary-treasurer, Fred Groth, Lincoln.

Executive committee—Frank Martin, Omaha; L. B. Clark, Lincoln; Merle C. Rathburn, Lincoln; Joe Barker, Omaha, and C. J. Backcritch, Fairbury.

The chair was authorized to name a committee to present to Governor Bryan the question of either attending in person the next national meeting of insurance commissioners or sending a qualified representative. The resolution adopted recited that it was in the interest of the insuring public as well as the profession that the Nebraska department keep in close touch with what other state departments are doing.

An auditing committee, composed of M. C. Rathburn, H. R. Ball and O. L. Morse, all of Lincoln, was named.

BOARD OF REGENTS MEETS

Resignation of Prof. R. F. Howard Accepted—Plans to Improve Temple Accepted.

The board of regents met in the chancellor's office at eleven o'clock. All regents were present except Mr. Seymour who was unexpectedly detained by business.

The resignation of R. F. Howard, professor of horticulture, effective August 31, was received. Professor Howard retires from the university service in order to handle his private business affairs. He already has interests in several commercial orchards and decided to sever his university connection in order to manage these and other interests.

A large number of minor appointments were confirmed to fill vacancies caused by normal overturn among assistants since the last meeting.

Plans for improvements in the Temple building, which have already been given to the press and had been recommended by the committee on industrial education, were approved.

Minor changes were made in the organization of the teachers college, not involving increase in the staff or salary changes. Also minor revisions in the constitution of the athletic board were adopted.

All colleges of the university were authorized to issue degrees as follows: "Students who have maintained high standing thruout their college course may be granted the appropriate bachelor's degree 'with distinction.'"

Considerable time was spent on the budget for the coming year which was tentatively adopted in part. The board adjourned at 4:30 to resume its session a week from today when it is believed that the work on the entire budget can be completed.

NORRIS SPENT NO MONEY

AFFIDAVIT OF PRIMARY EXPENSES ON FILE.

Renomination for Senator Obtained Without Outlay or Promise of Anything of Value.

Senator George W. Norris filed an affidavit with the secretary of state Friday stating that he did not pay or contract to pay any money or other thing of value or make any promises of any kind as a republican candidate for renomination in endeavoring to secure renomination or to defeat any other person for the nomination. To make it still broader his affidavit says he did not induce any other person to pay or promise to pay any money or thing of value for him, and so far as he knows no other person did. The affidavit was made at Washington and mailed to the secretary of state.

Judge J. L. Tewell of Sidney, judge of the Thirteenth judicial district, in reporting his primary campaign expenses says he paid "nothing myself to nobody or anybody," to get the nomination.

State Treasurer Robinson, republican, renominated without opposition, filed a report showing he spent nothing in the primary campaign.

Secretary of State Pool was the first candidate to file an affidavit showing that a poor man can be a candidate and win at a statewide election without spending a solitary red cent. He spent nothing. The limit to which candidates can go under the law is based upon a sliding scale per thousand votes, and this limit does not include expenditures for necessary personal expenses incurred for himself alone, for travel and subsistence, for stationery and postage, for telegraph and telephone service, for writing or printing and distributing letters, circulars and posters.

Judge J. L. McPheely of Minden, one of the nominees for judge of the supreme court in the Fifth district, stated that his report of expenses did not include newspaper advertising.

NAMES A FIELD SECRETARY

George Presson, Formerly of Stromsburg, to Take Charge for Telephone Association.

George Presson, former manager for the Lincoln Telephone & Telegraph company at Stromsburg, has been appointed by the executive committee of the Nebraska Telephone association as its field agent. The committee acted upon authority given it at the last annual convention, and picked on Mr. Presson after canvassing the field and securing sufficient pledges of financial support.

Mr. Presson's job will be to extend the membership of the association and to help those who belong to it in the settlement of their various problems of operation. This is expected to make membership more desirable. Less than half of the smaller companies in the state paid dividends last year, and Mr. Presson's services will be at the command of these that join the association so that they may be put on a paying basis where possible. This, it is explained, does not necessarily mean rate increases, as in many instances the ills can be cured by the correction of managerial errors.

Mr Presson is a son of Col J. H. Presson, recorder in the governor's office for many years. He takes up his new job April 15

JACOBY EXPLAINS VICTORY

Woman Chiropractor Did Harm Because of Legislative Speech On Backbone Trust.

"Big business was against me," said Representative I. W. Jacoby, farmer of Havelock, in speaking of the trials and tribulations of a primary campaign. "I think I have been nominated by about thirteen votes to the good. Yes, big business was against me, but the person who did me the most harm was a woman chiropractor. She took at least 100 votes away from me, and it was all because of a speech I made in the last legislature, and I think it was one of the best speeches I made. One of the chiropractor schools came butting in to influence the legislature and in my speech I called attention to it and it happened that this woman chiropractor belonged to that particular school. In my speech I said we had trusts of all kinds except trusts to control the backbone, and now behold we have a backbone trust right here at home."

RED CROSS FAVORS SURVEY

Would Round Up Ex-Service Men and Push Their Claims.

Red Cross Courier: Reporting an increase of 200 cases of assistance to ex-service men by the Lincoln and Lancaster county chapter, Miss Edwina Meaney, executive secretary, recommended a thoro survey of the veterans in the county. The work would be under a trained case worker with a view of a complete roundup of ex-service men and their families in need of service and to expedite tardy cases that are entitled to compensation.

The development of junior Red Cross so as to embrace every pupil in the public schools, the expansion of the life-saving corps activities, and the furthering of co-operation with other humanitarian agencies were placed before the chapter at its recent annual meeting, when Dr Benjamin F. Bailey was re-elected chairman.

Several election officers telephone the Journal to say that County Clerk Morgan is mistaken in saying that ample equipment was furnished for the late primary election. At the Prescott school building, where 5,788 are registered, three small booths were all that were furnished, with as high as fifteen persons at a time clamoring for a place to mark their ballots. At Trinity Methodist church a similar condition prevailed, and a number of voters made use of some of the tables in the basement, where the election was held.

Four speeders apepared in police court Saturday morning. They were disposed of as follows: T. D. DeLong, Havelock, was put on thirty days probation, the complaint to be dismissed at that time if his conduct so merits; W. V. Johnson, University Place, was fined $5 and costs; Helen Turner, 2116 Calvert, was fined $10 and costs; Thomas Kepner, Havelock, was placed under sixty days restriction during which time he is not to drive a car, the complaint to be dismissed at the end of that time if he has lived up to the judge's order.

State Tax Commissioner Smith is certifying the names of shareholders in foreign corporations to county assessors. The names and amounts of stock owned will be turned over to precinct assessors so that the property may be listed for taxation under the intangible tax law which imposes a tax of one-fourth the tax rate on tangible property. Commissioner Smith says the law yhich gives foreign corporations until April 15 to file lists of stockholders living in Nebraska should be amended to require a report by March 15. Under the present law the report comes so late that assessments must be reopened and the stocklisted, whereas it ought to be listed April 1.

Beatrice Girl Graduates Decide Gowns Not to Cost Over Ten Dollars—Prize to the Prettiest.

BEATRICE, Neb., April 12.—Beatrice girls who graduate from the high school this year will wear white cotton frocks none of which are to cost more than ten dollars, according to the action of sixty-two members of the class who held a meeting yesterday and decided the question by an unanimous vote. A resolution, framed by Dorothy Blodgett, Helen Hart, Esther Kelly and Ruth McClearan, was adopted to the effect that "We make our exercises simple and in harmony with a serious and dignified occasion; that our dresses be of white cotton material first, because it would be more suitable, and second, because it will be within the means of every girl in the class." The Beatrice Iwanis club offers a prize of $15 to the girl who makes the prettiest, most practical and most reasonably priced dress.

GOVERNOR AWAITING FACTS

Has No Definite Returns From Democratic or Progressive Party Vote on Governor.

Governor Bryan has thus far made no comment upon the recent primary. It is indicated that he will have something to say when he receives definite returns showing the size of his majority over his opponent, Charles Graff, and whether or not he obtained the progressive party nomination along with the democratic nomination for governor. Press reports early indicated he is the progressive party nominee but no returns haye been published as proof. He has no returns on preferential vote for president.

Wayne county adjoining Graff's home county of Cuming gave Bryan 240 and Graff 65; Antelope stood 454 to 81, Dakota 251 to 41, Nance 407 to 54, Dawes 191 to 71 and Johnson 396 to 49 in favor of Bryan and against Graff.

POSTAL RECEIPTS GROWING

Show 12 Per Cent Increase in Two Years—Parcels Mail Shows Even Greater Growth.

Growth of the city is reflected in the volume of business of the Lincoln postoffice. The 1923 receipts were $791,310.71 and this is 12 per cent more than the 1921 receipts, which were $702,573.62. The 1922 figure was $744,127.55. There were 23,039,067 pieces of first class and circular mail handled in 1921, according to Mr. McClay's figures; 25,783,831 the next year, and 26,028,068 in 1923, an increase of 3,000,000 pieces or approximately 12 per cent. The estimated quantities of mail sent thru with pre-cancelled stamps attached is given as a quarter of a million pieces in 1921 and a half million and one million in 1922 and 1923 respectively. The totals of insured and C. O. D. parcels dispatched were:

	1921	1922	1923
Insured	124,919	162,932	174,353
C. O. D.	67,068	70,678	66,609
	191,987	232,610	240,962

"The big increase noted in the item of parcel post packages dispatched is undoubtedly due to Lincoln's advantageous location and splendid mail service from all points in Lincoln trade territory," Mr. McClay says. "The promptness of Lincoln business houses in filling orders is effecting a saving of twenty-four hours in time and is an important matter to the customer and incidentally popularizes the Lincoln market."

OIL PIPE LINE BREAKS

Sinclair Line Gives Way on Grade and Allows Oil to Damage Field.

WASHINGTON, Kans., April 12.—A break occurred in the big pipe line of the Sinclair Oil company, which runs oil from the Teapot Dome, Wyoming, field to Freeman, Mo., Saturday morning and nearly 1,000 barrels of crude oil escaped into an adjoining field and overflowed into Mill Creek, before the shut off valve could be reached and the running oil stopped. The loss is placed at over $5,000 for the oil, besides several hundred dollars damage to the field and property. Acid in the oil retards plant growth. The break developed about five miles southeast of the station at this place and was discovered by the line walker on his regular daily beat up and down the line, which is buried just below plow line across fields. The line consists of two smaller pipes or grades, and it was one of these pipes taht burst under the strain of the big engines which force the oil from pump station to station. Altho the flow was shuit off quickly nearly five miles of pipe line remained full of oil between the valve and the break and this escaped. The line had been in operation but two days. It will take about twenty hours delay to make repairs

That the senate has but few judicial powers, none of which is to require answers to questions.

That the fourth and fifth amendments to the constitution relieve persons from search and seizure of their personal effect and private matters and says that witnesses need not testify against themselves.

That the indictment is vague and uncertain and fails to show that questions were pertinent.

That the questions were irrelevant.

Buying a House.

Chicago Daily News: "Here's a good chance to buy a house," announced the sweet lady to her supercilious husband. "Only $8,000."

"I'll give him five for it," replied the supercilious man.

"It's Flemish style," resumed the lady, "with all kinds of fancy doors and windows, including front doors, back doors, side doors, sliding doors——"

"Cellar doors and matadoors——"

"It's a great opportunity, an exceptional bargain, and on easy terms. Opportunity is here, right at your door——"

"So is the real estate agent," interjected the man.

"You will do well to embrace——"

"The real estate agent——"

"Only $500 down, the rest like rent, and no landlord! Think of it! No landlord to raise your rent——"

"The tenant to raise the rent——"

"Be a landlord yourself for a while. Buy a pair of flats; you can live in one and rent the other. You live in the best one, of course, and rent the other for $100 a month. In ten years you have collected enough rent to pay for your flat and the tenant's flat, too, and you own them both and——"

"It isn't always easy to find a tenant who wants to live in the same house with his landlord," argued the man. "It's bad enough to live in the same town with him, much less under the same roof. Absentee landlords are the only kind that the tenant will consider. Don't you notice how frequently it says there, 'Owner going to Europe,' or 'Owner going west?' That fact is mentioned among the other inducements. 'Good location, easy payments, restricted area, beautiful view, near trains, built-in features, every modern convenience, landlord leaving town.'

"Of course, you might conceal the fact from your tenant that he is lying down under the same roof with his landlord for a while, but not for long, because the first time your tenant catches you snooping around the premises when he comes home unexpectedly early some Sunday afternoon, he'll get wise. He'll catch you scrutinizing the walls and the floors and the banisters for scratches and abrasions, and know right away that you are the landlord, and he'll move away immediately.

"Is there any home listed there that you can buy for about $100 down and $42.50 a month?"

Lending Europe Uncle Sam.

One of the most popular plans of abolishing war is to establish a United States of Europe according to Esther Everett Lape, manager of the American peace award, who classifies and discusses in the Century the 22,165 proffered peace plans and their authors.

One of the most numerous groups, both among the abler and the less weighty plans, is the group that sets up a super-state. These plans are almost always worked out with the most minute detail as to the mechanism, but are very vague indeed as to the method of getting it started. They are likely to be specific in the wrong places. They reel out article after article and section after section in language carefully adopted from the constitution of the United States, with effective interposition of phrases from the Declaration of Independence. One suspects that the same average American who cries most loudly for home rule in his legislature lightly creates a super-state when he takes pen in hand to theorize upon international affairs.

A number of the creators of these superstates are perfectly frank in stating that what has worked so well for the United States should work for all the world, and should therefore be applied to it. Some authors state frankly that since Europe is the author of most wars, what is obviously needed is a United States of Europe; whereupon they turn to the constitution of the United States and, with a few changes of name only, propose one for Europe. A number of the plans rest upon the general theory that any plan for peace to be successful must be started here or must be in accordance with our principles. A few go so far as to propose that our supreme court or some agency created by us should really be an adjustment tribunal of all the world. One curiously recurrent proposal, based also upon a vast complacence in American traditions, recommends a "Monroe Doctrine of the World," whatever that may mean.

Morons, or Just Darned Fools?

Mitchell Bronk, in The North American Review: It was one of the revelations of the war time from which we have recently emerged, the fact brought out by the investigations of that war time, that a majority of us, at any rate of our fellow creatures, are not nearly so intelligent as we should be, as we thought we were. Still, we had known it all along, as well as Shakespeare's Puck: "What fools these mortals be!" But is was quite another proposition to have the truth set down in black and white; that is, in the merciless figures and statistical tables with which our governmental and professional psychologists confronted us. We had been complacently shutting our eyes to a whole lot of things. That the average man lacks average horse sense was one of them. That war time was an eye-opener in this respect also.

It is unnecessary to repeat the figures. They have been given the widest sort of publicity by the press, both popular and scientific. Indeed so much has been said of the results of the numerous "intelligence tests" that have been carried on by official and private investigators—even Mr. Edison has been trying his hand at it—and especially about that evidently fair testing of a million and a half drafted men, that many a decent citizen has lain awake nights, disquieted in mind, wondering just where he comes in: Is he a moron, or merely feeble-minded, or an ordinary fool, or simply stupid, or passably bright, or maybe of the intelligentsia? We had the swelled heads of maturity, or of old age, the most of us, and here comes along these people declaring that one-half of us never have and never will develop mental capacity beyond the stage represented by a twelve year old child. We feel like saying, if that is all that evolution can do for a fellow, why shouldn't we join the ranks of the fundamentalists and Mr. Bryan, and give evolution also our curses and kicks?

The Newer Politics.

Portland Oregonian: In the present state of public suspicion about big business many good lawyers are made unavailable thru having acted at some period of their careers for one line of big business or another. The difficulties are further increased by the fact that men of a size to make them available to be cabinet officers have fallen into a kind of panic about taking any kind of office. Not only is this true as respects cabinet officers in Washington. In addition efforts made by party leaders to find good men to run for governor in some states have been prostrated by the same kind of fear.—From Mark Sullivan's Letter, March 20.

A thick hide, an abounding egotism, a willingness to accept rebuffs with a smile, a certain surrender of self-respect, a weathercock adaptability to the prevailing political wind, discovery of the latest fad and invention of a phrase best to express it—these are some of the most suitable qualifications of the average candidate nowadays.

Good men run for office, to be sure. They grit their teeth and plunge in. They have a tough time adopting the prevailing political fashion. They have a tougher time before they get thru.

“GAG RULE” STRICTLY ENFORCED AT BROADCASTING STATIONS

SILENCE IS PLATINUM, SAYS O'HARA: YOU CAN HEAR A STITCH DROP IN THE SOPRANO'S SILK STOCKING.

By Neal O'Hara.

Copyright, 1924 (New York Evening World.)

One of the million ways not to spend a pleasant evening is in back of the scenes at a broadcasting plant. If you enjoy life, liberty, pursuit of happiness and other clauses in the constitution, keep away from the winding stairs that lead to the microphone booth. You can week-end at that steel-trimmed Ossining hotel—the place where the guest is always wrong—and have twice as much fun.

The trouble with cordiality at the broadcasting plants is that silence is the thing of which they want nothing else but. If you're down on the bill to yodel, orate or do card tricks in front of the mike, you're welcome to make all the noise you want while doing your act. But while you're in the background waiting to go on, they begrudge you the noise you make to breathe.

We always thought spectating at the putting green of a golf links was the limit in enforced silence. But you ain't heard nothing yet in the way of "shushing" till you've visited a radio den.

You see, it's this way, mates: The microphone is such a tender, sensitive thing that it picks up every little noiselet and broadcasts it over the air. That's why they want silence from everyone except the guy that's doing his stuff. And even if that bird should clear his throat, it would sound like a tornado to the listeners-in.

The head-set customers not only can hear a pin drop. They can hear a stitch drop in a soprano's silk stocking.

The consequence is, you don't dare to move while the show is going on. You don't dare to wink at the blond violinist. You don't dare to yawn at the bedtime story. You don't dare to blow your nose. If you happen to be wearing corduroy pants, you don't even dare to cross your legs.

Now ain't that a nice, sociable institution? But it isn't the studio host's fault, at that. It's just because you radio bugs have become so finicky and fastidious. A few years ago the movie addicts used to watch for bones and mistakes in the movies. If Julius Caesar was shown wearing an Elk's charm or if Cleopatra's boudoir was equipped with electric curlers, all the wise guys and smart Alexanders would rush indignant letters to the movie works.

But now the radio is stepping out of its swaddling duds and getting settled, the customers are listening overtime for flaws. That's why a baritone that's piping a solo doesn't dare to take a deep breath. He ain't afraid of busting the buttons off his vest. He's afraid a deep breath would sound like a hurricane to some head set owner in Council Bluffs.

If the guys that furnish your radio entertainment don't broadcast their good breeding, they get back quick complaint. Clearing your throat sounds like a Kansas cyclone. Asthma is like the beating of the surf. Why, a one-bulb guy from Chillicothe, O., kicked because he could hear a male quartet sucking their slippery elm lozenges. What are you going to do with customers like that?

Yep, silence may be golden in ordinary walks of life. But it's platinum in a broadcasting plant.

Pretty soon all the leading broadcasting parlors will have signs like they have in the front end of street cars. Only instead of "Don't talk to the motorman," they will read "Don't talk to the orchestra conductor."

Everything in the up-to-date joint is arranged so no sound will escape the mike. That's why they have thick carpets, rich hangings, plush ceilings and hermetically sealed doors. An echo has as much chance in a studio as a whisper in a boiler factory.

There's only one redeeming feature to these silence by-laws. If you happen to make a noise, they can't bawl you out. They can throw you out or shoot you with noiseless gunpowder, maybe—but they can't positively bawl you out.

So, if any one ever invites you to go behind the scenes at a radio concert thank 'em very much but tell em you're suffering from a slight touch of smallpox or leprosy.

You can have as much fun picking a scrap with your wife and listening to her all evening with bated breath.

Farrell Refuses to Act on Transfer of Franchise

COURT ACTION MAY BE THE NEXT STEP

Secretary of Minor Leagues Says Transfer of Lincoln Franchise Is Internal Affair and Up to League.

Secretary Farrell, to whom the Lincoln state league owners turned when the Tri-state league transferred the Lincoln franchise to Sioux Falls, S. D. says he is powerless to act in the premises inasmuch as the matter is entirely within the league and must be settled by it This was the substance of a telegram received by O. A. Beltzer, president of the Lincoln state league club, Saturday.

Therefore the situation is this: Lincoln has a ball club and no league in which to compete while Sioux Falls is in a league but has no ball club.

"We will put the matter before a lawyer and find out the next step which will no doubt be a legal action of some kind," Mr. Beltzer said.

The Lincoln owners may hold the players on their reserve list until the league season opens, May 8. This works a hardship on the players as it prevents them from signing until that time but the Lincoln owners believe they will realize something from Sioux Falls if they hang on. The South Dakotans believe they can out-wait the Lincoln men and that they will be able to pick up the players as soon as they are declared free agents, without paying a purchase price.

After the new Tri-State league was organized, with Sioux Falls, Sioux City, Beatrice, Hastings, Norfolk and Grand Island as members, the club owners decided on a 120-game schedule, which opens May 8 and closes September 7.

Dick Grotte, who was president of the Nebraska State league, will act as president of the Tri-State circuit.

In the Booster bowling league on the Lincoln alleys Friday night the Shogo Lithia team took two out of three from the Reformatory team. The Reliable Grocers lost three straight to the Lincoln Alleys players, and the Western Brick and Supply team took three straight from the Standard Oil team.

Bankers Will See Boxing at Norfolk

NORFOLK, Neb., April 12.—Two main events have been definitely decided upon by the Norfolk post of the American Legion for its boxing program here on the night of April 22. The special boxing program was arranged in order to give visiting bankers good athletic entertainment for their annual banquet which will be held here by group No. 3, Nebraska Bankers' association, on that date.

The heavyweight contest is a scheduled ten round affair between George Liebereit of Herrick, S. D., and George Patitz of Bassett, Neb. The former has been cleaning up everything in semi-windup events and the fans want to see him in a main event affair here. Patitz first took up the fistic art in Omaha.

Another attraction will be a go between Clark Conners, of Sioux City, and Rusty Evans, of York. Conners came here a few weeks ago and knocked out a local boy in thirty seconds. Fans are anxious to see him meet Evans. The semi-windup will be between Benny Levine, of Norfolk, and Kid Grey, of Wayne, welters.

Travis won the British amateur title just twenty years ago, when Bobby Jones was about a year old.

TRYING TO EXPLAIN DECLINE OF CARDS

St. Louis Nationals Fail to Land in First Division Last Year After Several Years as Contenders.

NEW YORK, April 12.—With just an ordinary ball club—not too good and not so terribly bad—the St. Louis Cardinals failed to make the first division in the National league last year, after they had been pennant contenders over a stretch of several seasons.

There have been many reasons attributed for the decline of the Cards, chief among which has been the failure of the club to keep up on its pitching. The Cards last season fell off in hitting and next to the Brooklyn Robins they were the loosest fielding team in the league.

With Rogers Hornsby, the Cards are almost a one-man team altho they are not so much dependent upon an individual as the Browns have been.

One of Most Valuable.

Hornsby is one of the greatest players in the game and with the possible exception of Frank Frisch, the young Giant second baseman, he is the most valuable player in the National league.

Hornsby won the batting championship of the league last season but his value to the club was depreciated somewhat by indifference that resulted from a row with the management. He played in only 107 games of the schedule and he refused to play late in the season when he claimed that he had a bad knee.

Since the close of the season, when Hornsby was reported to have said that he would never play again for Branch Rickey, he is reported to have made peace with his manager and if he has, he will be of much more use to the club this year.

Milton Stock, veteran third baseman, did not report to the club this year. He insists that he will not play unless he is transferred to some other club. In his place, Rickey is using Herbert Bell, a youngster, who was developed in the extensive school the club maintains in the minor leagues.

Stock has slipped back greatly and it is quite possible that Bell may play well enough to make the veteran's service only slightly missed.

The veteran Doc Lavan probably will be replaced at shortstop by F. Feigau, another young player who was picked up from an Ohio college diamond. He looked like a fine prospect last season and ought to be an improved player this year.

Hornsby, of course, will play second base and first will be handled by Jim Bottomley, who has developed almost sensationally since Rickey brought him in from the outfield.

Need of Catchers Apparent.

The team is desperately in need of catching material and it is probable that a deal will be made with some other club before the season has gone far.

The pitching staff consists of Haines, Doak, Barfoot, Pfeffer, Stuart, North and Sothoron. Manager Rickey is banking upon Doak to have a big season this year and he is expecting a lot from Sothoron who slipped to the minor leagues because he couldn't field bunts.

The Cards have not been improved positively while it is certain that they will face harder competition this year than they did last year.

SCHEDULE GAME WITH JAPANESE BALL CLUB

Nebraska will play University of Meiji's baseball team here May 21, John Selleck, business manager of athletics, announced Saturday morning. The Meiji team comes from Tokio, Japan, and is making a trip thru the United States playing college teams.

Chicago—The White Sox and the Giants are here today for a two game pre-season series. Yesterday the Sox defeated the Giants 4 to 1 at Indianapolis.

Kansas City—The Cubs and the Kansas City Blues will play the fourth game of their series here today. In yesterday's contest it tokk the Cubs ten innings to beat the Blues 7 to 6.

Announce Swimming And Rifle Awards

Letters awarded members of the University of Nebraska's swimming and rifle teams were announced Saturday by the athletic office. The members of the swimming team winning an "N" were Frank Hunton, Norman Plate, Henry Brainerd, John Campbell, L. A. Kirkbride and Lloyd Schildneck.

The rifle team letter winners included Dale Skinner, Donald Roberts, Douglas Lewis, Walter Lammli, Robert Currier and Willard Dove.

WAKEFIELD PRAISES LINCOLN OUTFIELD

Milan, Moore and O'Connor Best in Western, Lincoln Manager Declares—To Play Bartlesville Saturday.

The classiest outfield in the league is the way "Boss" Howard Wakefield described his trio of gardeners—the boys who will drag down the old apple at Landis field this summer. The Lincoln manager referred to Harry Milan, younger brother of Clyde Milan, the latter former manager of the Washington Senators, 'Dick' O'Connor, ex-Omaha fielder, and Eddie Moore, who pastimed for Sioux City in 1923.

All three men are speed merchants and .300 swatters Milan, who played sixty-three games with Sioux City last year, clouted the pill at a .353 clip. Seventy-nine hits in 224 times at bat gave the former Sioux a healthy average on the score sheet. Milan is also a clever fielder and possesses a great throwing arm. In the Thursday game with Bartlesville he threw Jenkins out at the plate on a fine throw from deep left. Milan is a young player and should have another great year, Wakefield said.

Eddie Moore was rated among the top-notch outfielders in the circuit last year. Moore smacked the ball for a .326 average with Sioux City; hitting ten three-base swats and forty-seven doubles. He was credited with 201 hits in 616 times at bat. Moore starred for the Lincoln tribe in the Thursday battle, making several spetacular catches around center.

"Dick" O'Connor, former Buffalo and Sioux City star, is presumably on his way to the Nowata training camp. O'Connor checked out of Omaha Thursday night and is expected at the Lincoln camp Saturday "Dick" bats from the wrong side of the plate but succeeded in gaining a .324 average in 1923. O'Connor is a fast man on the sacks and can cover a world of ground in the outfield.

Henry, another outfielder with the Lincoln outfit, is also a great prospect. "Hank" can play any position on the diamond. He prefers to play out on the edge of the lot or else behind the bat. Wakefield will undoubtedly keep Henry as a utility man because of his all-around ability and work with the stick.

Lincoln to Bartlesville.

NOWATA, Okla., April 11. — The Lincoln Western leaguers will take a twenty-four mile ride overland to Bartlesville Saturday for a two-game series with the Bartlesville Bearcats. Every man on the team is in shape but the pitchers. Art Rasmussen, who is handling the affairs of the club in Wakefield's absence, said that not a hurler on the team could go over five innings, except possibly Bulla, the star southpaw of the outfit. Lincoln will open the Western league season at Wichita Wednesday. Rasmussen stated that either he or Bulla would start the Bartlesville game Saturday afternoon.

Pesek and Munn Win In Wrestling Bouts

CHICAGO, April 12.—Two Nebraska wrestlers won in matches here Friday night, John Pesek pinning Charley Dish, ex-Olympic champion, in 17 minutes 5 seconds with a head scissors and wristlock; Wayne Munn dumping Dick Daviscourt with a headlock in 7 minutes 52 seconds.

Renato Gardini, Italian heavyweight champion, won from Taro Myaki, Jap wrestler, in straight falls.

Middleweights in Action.

CHICAGO, April 12.—Joe Parelli, middleweight wrestling champion, tossed August Sepp, Boulder, Col., in forty-eight minutes here last night. Johnny Meyers, from whom Parelli annexed the title, failed to throw Jack Sachs, former amateur champion, in the time limit and their semi-windup was declared a draw.

Farrell Picks Cincinnati To Win National League Pennant This Year

BY HENRY L. FARRELL.

NEW YORK, April 12.—No baseball club has ever won the National league pennant four times in consecutive years. That may be a superstition, but it is not a sensible reason why John McGraw should not achieve that record this year with the New York Giants.

The best ground upon which to base a prediction that the Giants will fail to win the National league championship this year is that they are not good enough, and for that reason we predict that the "scourage of New Yorkitis" will be removed from at least one-half of the world's series.

By considering what the eight National league clubs were at the close of the 1923 season, what has happened to them since the close of the season and what they showed in their training, we are willing to take the blame for predicting that the eight teams will finish the season in this order:

Cincinnati Reds.
New York Giants.
Pittsburgh Pirates.
Chicago Cubs.
St. Louis Cardinals.
Boston Braves.
Brooklyn Robins.
Philadelphia Phils.

Fate, as was manifested in the death of Pat Moran, removed the Cincinnati Reds from the position of an almost sure winner to one of a slightly doubtful condition.

If Pat Moran could have led the Reds thru the 1924 pennant race the Giants could not have stopped them. Moran passed on to Jack Hendricks, a good baseball man, the same hand that he would have played, but Hendricks may not be able to play it as skillfully, not because he doesn't know how, but because he may have trouble in handling the cards.

May Be Dissension.

If the players on the Reds would rather have had one of their own members named to lead the club instead of a minor league manager who had been hired as a coach; if they feel any dislike against their manager and allow it to influence their play, the Reds may not win the pennant.

However, the Giants seem to be in such a mood to blow up completely that it seems possible that the Reds should go thru on momentum an instinct on the turns without a hand to shift the gears or handle the wheel.

The Reds have a fine outfield, which includes a satisfied Roush, who will be playing ball from the first day of the season and he is a ball player. They have a good infield, worn a bit at first base and erratic at third base. They have a good catching staff and they have the finest pitching staff in baseball.

Luque, Donohue, Rixey, Benton, Mays, Sheehan, May and a couple of good youngsters ought to carry the team thru to victory, if the players have even the slightest desire to profit financially by participation in the world's series.

Knowing Jack Hendricks well, it is our opinion that he will handle the team properly and that he will get along with the players, as there are no notoriously bad atheletes to handle on the club.

In their training, the New York Giants were said to have acted like they didn't know the world's series was over. It has always been said that when the Giants started to go, they would make a poor job of it. Last winter McGraw said he had realized that the club had reached the peak of its usefulness and that he wanted some new faces.

Believes Problem is Solved.

As new faces, he got Billy Southworth and Joe Oeschger from the Boston Braves, and four pitchers—Dean, Maun, Baldwin and Bradshaw—from the minors. With these pitchers assisting Nehf, Bentley, McQuillan, Watson and Barnes, he thinks his problem has been solved.

McGraw needs a third baseman to help out Heinie Groh. He nedes a more experienced shortstop than Jackson, and Kelly is sliding at first base. In Bill Terry he has a substitute for Kelly, but he has no reliable substitute for Groh or Jackson.

The Pittsburgh Pirates, with the exception of Wright, a young shortstop, are the same as they were last year, and they should finish in the same position because they weren't desperately in need of a shortstop. The Chicago Cubs are the same as they were last season and they should finish in fourth place

If the Pirates and the Cubs should finish higher than third and fourth, it will be because the Giants drop down to fourth plac or into the second division, and that is not at all impossible.

Among the teams that finished in the second division last season, only the Boston Braves have been improved. If the Braves had not had the misfortune to lose a good third baseman when Tony Boeckel was killed in an automobile accident, the club might have finished higher, but it looks hardly better than sixth place, altho it has a chance to beat the Cardinals, who are just as drab and droll as they were last year.

Master Mind is Slipping.

Brooklyn and Philadelphia are safely placed in the hole.

The giants, of course, have McGraw, but much of the gray matter seemed to have been taken out of that "Master Mind" stuff last fall, and it was shown that McGraw cannot go on forever getting everything out of nothing.

It looks like the Reds in the series next fall.

Hard to Find An Opponent for Long

The name, Charley Long, seems to carry with it a wholesome respect among Iowa welters or else the injury jinx really is camping on their trails in that state. Billy Hale, who is promoting the Company I, National Guard boxing show here Tuesday night, is inclined to view it from that angle. He first had Ray Carter signed to battle the Omaha dusky. Ray said afterwards he hurt his ankle.

Ted Zanfres was next to sign. Now he says he can't go on because of a bad cut over one eye.

Promoter Hale has wired Mike Gibbons and also sent a message to the manager of Jimmy Gill. Gill fought Wheelock here two years ago. Gill won on a foul.

"We'll have somebody by Saturday night, without any question, who isn't afraid of Long," Hale stated.

Battling Strayer and Buddy Chambers top the Tuesday night card here.

WARNIE SMITH IS MORRIE'S MASTER

Oklahoma Cowboy Avenges Defeat Handed Him by Omaha's Fighting Fool Last Winter—Other Fistic News.

CHICAGO, April 12. — Warnie Smith, Oklahoma cowboy, got the decision in his ten round fight with Morrie Schlaifer, Omaha, here last night. Schlaifer defeated Smith in Omaha last winter.

Jack McCarthy, Chicago, knocked out Boots Hanson, Elgin, in the second round of the semi-windup. Tommy Herman stopped Johnny Croak in the third. Eddie Morris beat Patsie Rocco in the eighth and Eddie Welsh took a four round fight from Steve Adams.

May Change Carp Date.

CHICAGO, April 12.—The date of the scheduled Carpentier-Gibbons fight in the Fitzsimmons arena at Michigan City, Ind., may be changed from July 4 to May 31.

Floyd Fitzsimmons indicated the contemplated change today and promised a definite announcement later.

The change of dates will permit Carpentier to keep his contract with Fitzsimmons to do his first American fight in the arena here and to carry out his contract to meet Gene Tunney in the east June 16.

Bantam Champ to Battle.

NEW YORK, April 12.—Abe Goldstein, bantamweight champion, has signed to defend his title against Johnny McCoy at East Chicago on April 21, and against Clarence Rosen at Detroit on May 5.

Dundee Must Get $50,000.

NEW YORK, April 12.—Paris promoters who want to stage a match between Johnny Dundee and Eugene Criqui for the world's featherweight championship, will have to give Dundee $50,000 and traveling money for three, according to terms submitted to them by cable.

HEAVYWEIGHT OF CHILI, WHO WILL BOX HIS WAY TO DEMPSEY

Quintin Romero, the Chilean heavyweight, who will endeavor to emulate Luis Firpo and fight his way to a match with Jack Dempsey for the world's heavyweight championship, has arrived in New York from South America after his challenge to fight Firpo for the South America title had been ignored by the Argentine giant. Romero says he bars no heavyweight and is ready to meet Floyd Johnson, Jack Renault or Fred Fulton on May 9. If he wins against one of this trio he will be ready to stack up against Harry Wills for the right to a meeting with Dempsey.

Fifteen in Squad Of Davis Cup Men

NEW YORK, April 12.—Fifteen star tennis players were named today by the United States Lawn Tennis association as members of the Davis cup squad as candidates for the team that will defend the cup this summer.

It was said that in taking this new step the association wanted to notify the fifteen players that their play this summer was to be observed so they could make their tournament scheduled accordingly.

The players named in order of priority were:

William T. Tilden; William M. Johnston, Richard N. Williams, Vincent Richards, Frank Hunter, Howard Kinsey, Carl Fisher, Harvey Snodgrass, Robert Kinsey, Wallace F. Johnson, Clarence J. Griffin, Frank T. Anderson, Watson Washburn, George King and Hugh Kelleher.

Numeral Winners Beginning to Show

Numeral winners among the state high school track athletes are beginning to appear at Coach Schulte's office at the university. Kearney now leads with four while Scotia is next with three. However, two of the Scotia athletes, Felk and Schultey won full blue numerals while all the Kearney awards were light blue.

The Kearney winners: R. Rain, J. Bennell, H. Hastings, H. Marrow. The Scotia winners: A. Felk, H. Schultey, P. Poppe.

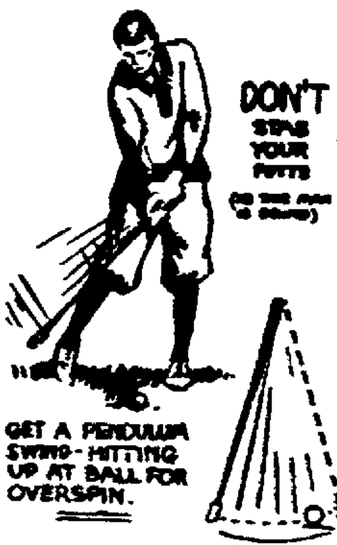
LITTLE LESSONS IN GOLF



DON'T STAB YOUR PUTTS
GET A PENDULUM SWING - HITTING UP AT BALL FOR OVERSPIN.

Is it a good practice to stab putts when greens are slow and rough?

Answered by

WILLIAM MELHORN.

The St. Louis Youngster" whose batting [illegible] game and sound golf enable him to finish well up in all the tournaments he enters.

To stab putts is bad practice on any kind of a green, especially on slow or rough greens. A putt hit with an overspin is always easier to control. On rough green the putt with an overspin will keep its line better, tending to roll right over the bumps and keep a straight course, while a stab putt is hit with more of a cut and every bump it hits might make it kick farther off the line. Try a more pendulum swing, hitting up at the ball.

TELLING THE WORLD

BY NEAL O'HARA

John D. Swinging a Mean Mashie At Ripe Old Age.

(Copyright, 1924 (New York Evening World), Press Publishing Company.

John D. Rockefeller is celebrating his old age with daily niblick practice. Only medicine he takes is gutta percha pill and forty healthy swings at it. That is secret of his prosperous robustness. Forty strokes a day keeps the apoplexy away. And as a golfer, John D.'s middle name is Demon. He jaywalks that Florida course in par figures. He is only one state below Bobby Jones.

Mr. Rockefeller digs no oil wells when he socks the ball. He replaces no divots on balmy real estate. Way he slaps the gutta percha off the tee, you would never suspect he was rich—he's good at it. John D. is same kind of golfer he is a financier. You would swear he was born in Scotland.

John D. Rockefeller is richest man in two shoes and five continents. There is no dispute about it. Senator Wheeler admits it. Roxie Stinson is sure about it. And Will Hays says it's so. So it must be.

Rockefeller is conservatively estimated to be worth $1,000,000,000. His fortune consists of ten figures and three commas. Try and laugh that off at income tax time.

Yep, gasoline czar is world's richest citizen. Flivver king is second richest man. And some garage repair guy must be in third place.

Rockefeller is world's most famous name But he is only oil man not mentioned in Washington, D C

John D was petroleum pioneer. He controlled nation's supply of oil before Doheny owned his first black satchel

He was leading petroleum magnate when Broadway was on the kerosene circuit He goes back that far.

Today he is in his eighty-fifth year. He is five years behind Dr Elliot. But he is one yard ahead of him in literature John D has an eight-foot shelf of bankbooks

It must be great to be richer than Henry Ford That's why Rockefeller gives away buffalo nickels to everyone he meets. Hank only gives Detroit jitneys to Thomas Edison.

John D. also sprinkles dimes when he is feeling flush. But dime is limit of his tipping orgies. He uses Woolworth motto in distributing coins. Nothing over 10 cents.

They can call Rockefeller Midas, Croesus and other allegorical nom de plumes. But they will never mistake him for drunken sailor.

He even gets eight miles out of 10-cent tip to his caddie.

There is much high grade guesswork at what he will do with his large bundle of jack. But best opinion concedes he will donate it for building gothic and renaissance filling stations. In twenty years American cities and towns will point with pride to Rockefeller filling stations that eclipse marble Carnegie libraries.

Even now they are tearing Socony billboards off highways to make room for more gasoline kiosks. In a couple of years there will be twenty filling stations to a mile.

But daily mashie swinging is still most important thing in John D.'s young life. Bankers shudder and money temples quiver when gas czar foozles a drive.

Every ticker service jumbles quotations and sport news when Rockefeller tees off. Average daily dope from Ormond Beach links reads like this:

Rockefeller sank 15-foot putt for a par 3. Gasoline goes down 2 cents.

Rockefeller overtipped caddie by 5 cents Standard Oil of New Jersey passes dividend

Rockefeller swore at hooking into sand trap Doubles donation to federated churches

Rockefeller lost golf ball in the rough Gasoline goes up 3 cents.

Rockefeller tears his hair at missing easy putt International Toupee, preferred, jumps six points.

Rockefeller sliced his drive badly. Rockefeller Foundation starts work to discover serum for keeping eye on the ball

Rockefeller topped his approach shot with midiron Midvale Steel and Iron off four points.

LATEST MARKETS

CHICAGO, April 12.—Grains closed on the local board of trade today showing sharp gains.

General news received at the pit during today's short session was favorable to bulls and they lost no time in re-instating their lines.

Advances in corn were due to better shipping demand, lighter receipts and offerings.

Oats features were delayed seeding and improved demand.

Trade in provisions was dull but the market maintained a firm undertone and closed higher.

CHICAGO, April 12.—Grains started higher on the board of trade here today. Wheat was up fractionally, reflecting higher outside market and larger export business. Export business overnight totaled a million bushels including some durum.

Light receipts and unfavorable weather were strengthening features in the corn market.

Delayed seeding and a better cash demand in the face of light receipts brot strength to oats.

Provisions reflected higher hogs and steady cables.

Chicago Tribune Report.

CHICAGO, April 12.—Traders don't expect wheat market to do much for the present. Further liquidation is expected in the May delivery. A report from Washington said the Caroway bill which prohibits selling of grain unless one possesses the grain or is a grower was ordered out of committee yesterday.

There has been no public hearing on this bill.

Corn traders believe the largest holders are gradually liquidating on all strong spots. While local industries are taking cash corn and Illinois and eastern Iowa holders are offering little to come this way the eastern demand for corn is so light that it makes the average trader timid about buying.

While Chicago cash handlers are without bids from the seaboard on corn, Minneapolis for the last two days has claimed to have inquiries for corn, for shipment from Duluth at the opening of navigation. As far as known no buisness has been cloced.—Lamson.

Grain Market Opinions.

Hulburd-Warren & Chandler: We look for sagging prices.

Harris-Winthrop & Co: Moderate ranges are likely, pending some fresh development.

Clement-Curtis & Co.: We see no evidence of improvement in the demand.

Stein-Alstrin: Wheat continues to rule unsettled. Coarse grain should reflect strength in the cash situation.

Bartlett-Frazier & Co.: Bearish news seems to have been discounted.

Logan & Bryan: On setbacks, we favor buying side of the market.

Thomson-McKinnon: The market appear to be awaiting developments.—Lamson.

Journal of Commerce Report.

CHICAGO, April 12.—There is a fairly general feeling that little support can be expected from speculators under prevailing conditions. Strength must be maintained in the cash markets to keep futures from developing weakness.

Every move that has been made by farmers' representatives in congress has disturbed the speculative element and this has been going on for so long that there are few speculators left. Omaha reported a brisk demand for cash corn and said its stock of 1,600,000 bushels were all sold, to go out.—Lamson.

Herald-Examiner Report.

CHICAGO, April 12.—Lack of confidence on the buying side still exists. Considerable of the buying in corn yesterday was by previous sellers. Early weather forecast indicates unsettled, probably occasional showers in central grain belt, rain or snow in Michigan. The tendency will be toward higher temperatures, however.—Lamson.

Export Grain Demand.

Export sales of around 1,000,000 bushels wheat, largely Manitobas (Canada), but said to include 250,000 bushels durum (Amn), were reported at the seaboard. There were inquiries for 40,000 bushels hard winter (Amn), vit the gulf, altho no sales could be confirmed.—Lamson.

Omaha Livestock.

OMAHA, April 12.—Cattle: receipts 100. Today's market nominal. While the week's receipts have been of fair size, nearly 21,800 head, the market has active at the highest prices of the year so far, steers advancing 10@25c and she stock moving up 25@50c. Top steers reached $11.30. Best heavy cows brought $8.40 and choice heifers touched $9.10. There was not much change in the general run of stockers and feeders, best fleshy feeders advancing a little in line with the upturn on killers.

HOGS—receipts 5,500. Local trade was of an extremely slow character for Saturday in face of the very light supply at hand and slightly stronger trends at other centers. Shippers took on a few of the best butchers grade at prices around 5c higher than Friday, while packers made a stand to secure their droves at steady to strong levels and trade dragged as a result.

Although receipts were light this week, prices failed to respond and values at the close are 15@20c lower than last Saturday. Sales of hogs today:

No.	Av.	Price	No.	Av.	Price
55	283	$6.60	69	238	$6.95

60	365	6.90

SHEEP—receipts today none. Market nominal. A steadily advancing market featured the fat lamb trade this week with values advancing into new high ground for the year and closing at the top. Final prices showed fully 50@60c upturn over last Saturday, best wooled lambs touching $16.65. Clipped lambs also advanced sharply, being $1.00 higher for the week. A good tone dominated the shearer market and prices are up 25@50c for the six day period. Aged sheep are little changed for the week.

Can't Account for Slump.

CHICAGO, April 12.—C. B. Smith, president of the Stewart-Warner Speedometer corporation says there is nothing in the business situation of the company to account for yesterday's slump. John Hertz, of the Yellow-Cab company makes similar statement.—Lamson Bros. & Co.

Coming Events in Stocks.

NEW YORK, April 12.—The further effort to depress prices over the weekend may be expected, the list as a whole appears temporarily oversold, and a fair sized rally is not unlikely to occur in the early part of the coming week. Prices in the majority of instances are reaching levels attractive for the accumulation for the long pull in the most meritorious stocks.—Lamson Bros. & Co.

Wall Street Journal Review.

NEW YORK, April 12.—Persistent pressure on Studebaker finally unsettled the whole motor group in the last half hour and further bad breaks took place in automobile and accessories stocks.

Studebaker reached a new low for the year at 86¾, Chandler at 43¾ and Stewart Warner at 71¾. Weakness among the Motors started general selling in the industrial list and the closing tone was heavy. The market closed lower.

NEW YORK, April 12.—Announcement before the opening that Germany had accepted the Dawes reparation report and would send delgates to Paris to communicate this decision to the reparations commission, gave further impetus to the rally which started in the afternoon trading in the preceding session.

Another constructive factor was afforded in the weekly trade reviews which reported continued evidence of improvement in the retail trade with the majority of lines showing expansion.

Fractional gains were scored in the early dealings by Steel, Bethlehem, Can and other industrial leaders. Coppers gave especially good account of themselves under the lead of Kennecott, which came back to 36¾, a point recovery from Friday's low. Norfolk and Western was the outstanding feature of the rails, jumping 1⅜ to 125⅝.

Opening prices included:

Norfolk and Western 125⅝ up 1⅜; American Can 99¾ up ⅛; Studebaker 89¾ off ⅛; Erie 25⅜ up ⅛; Bethlehem Steel 50⅝ up ⅜; U. S. Steel 97¾ up ¼; Southern Pacific 89⅝ up ⅛; Marland 37¾ up ⅜. Marland prefered 30¾ up ⅛; Baldwin 114⅝ off ⅛.

Stock Market Opinions.

Post & Flagg: Stocks look pretty well liquidated.

Stein Alstrin: This rally should go further.

Harris Winthrop & Co.: We favor buying on the declines.

Clark Childs & Co.: We look forward to higher levels.

Thomson McKinnon: It is within the power of congress to give us a bull or a bear market.

Logan & Bryan: An extension of the advance is likely.

D. W. Jones: Berlin accepts Dawes report. Formal announcement waits meeting of state premiers Monday.

Hornblower & Weeks: Do not be tempted to buying stock on top of this traders rally. We think it will probably run its course before the day's close. We expect new low prices next week with especial weakness in railroad shares. We still believe that bottom will not be made for an appreciable until the middle of the month.

New York Times: Speculative generalship as yet appears to have no definite convictions.—Lamson Bros. & Co.

Breakdown of Old Taxing System.

Chicago Daily News: Chicago's board of education, according to its own estimates, will face an accumulated deficit of more than $16,000,000 at the close of the current fiscal year. The educational fund is inadequate and the board is driven to incur debts and plead every few years for an increase in the school tax rate.

This chronic condition, it is explained on behalf of the board, is the result of an antiquated system of taxation. The board is under obligation to provide education for all the children who are required by law, and are morally entitled, to attend the public schools, and the growth of the population insures a steady increase in school attendance. This annual increase is said to vary between 15,000 and 20,000. On the other hand, the school tax, like all other local taxes, is based on assessed valuations of property under an outgrown general property tax law. The two systems do not dovetail.

Thus the friends of education and of childhood are bound to reach the conclusion that the taxation and revenue system of Illinois needs thorogoing revision. The general property tax is clearly confiscatory of income from savings and investments, and is unenforceable. It leads to general evasion and flagrant inequalities. It fails to yield adequate revenue because many succeed in escaping their legal obligations, and others, burdened with excessive rates which they resent as unfair, object to the assessments contemplated by the letter of the law.

While all taxing bodies should live within their incomes, those incomes should be sufficient to cover legitimate requirements under a policy of sound economy and genuine efficiency. A just and general income tax of small percentages in lieu of the tax on personal property, tangible and intangible, would permanently solve the state's revenue problems. This is well established by scientific investigation of disinterested authorities on taxation.

Some Days and Others.

Chicago Daily News: "What kind of day did you have at school today, Jimmie?" asked the head of the happy family.

"Goin' to be a bad day for me," sighed Jimmie. "I forgot to do my home work. What d'yu mean—kind of a day?"

"You don't mean to say that there is a day in the week which has escaped being tagged!" exclaimed Jimmie's father in mock horror. "Think a minute!! It must be 'get-together day' or 'clean-up-your-desk day' or 'wash your neck' day or 'save a cent day'!"

"Well," acknowledged the young hopeful. "I guess we did have something special to do. We were to pick up all the papers we found on the way to school — 'clean-up-your-city' day—and have a bonfire with the rubbish."

"I thought so!" declared the head of the family. "And what, may I ask, is tomorrow labeled?"

"James!" remonstrated the little lady of the flat. "I don't think you ought to talk to the child that way."

"Hold on, mother. I'm really asking for information."

"I'll have to consult the schedule," remarked Jimmie, drawing a notebook from his bulging pocket and disentagling it from a network of strings, pen points and mutilated papers. "It's 'plant-a-seed' day. They say that if everybody in the world planted even one seed it 'ud make a big change in the world!"

"Hm!" mused the head of the house, "guess I'll plant some bird seed and raise a pair of wings."

"James, I'm surprised at you!" said the little lady of the flat. "I consider it an excellent plan to set apart certain days to bring valuable lessons to the children."

"It wouldn't be so bad if it were confined to the children," groaned the head of the house. "But it's spread all over the map! What with thrift week and arbor day and apple day and turn-over-a-new-leaf day and stay-at-home night and buy-a-bond morning. I can't find a single day to call my own. Even congress is getting all balled up with special occasions and banks don't have much time left to tend to business. Pretty soon President Coolidge will have to propose a law setting aside at least two days a year, labeled 'business as usual,' and let the world have a chance to get back to normal days."

"Now I like the good old days when the calendar didn't read like an engagement book with every day marked."

"Jimmie and I had begun already to plan all the wonderful things we'd do for you on 'father's day,'" remarked the little lady. "But I suppose you would rather we forgot all about it."

"Oh, I wouldn't go so far as to say that," remonstrated the head of the house. "There are some institutions great enough to warrant setting apart a day in their honor. I guess fathers have got some attention coming to them!"

Our Own Revolution.

Russia's much advertised program for reconstitution of society overnight has resulted in bloodshed and famine. British academic Utopians have railed in vain against America for its failure to adopt measures of radical reform in industry. Meanwhile, says Richard Boeckel in The Forum, unheralded by the press, there is being accomplished in our country an industrial revolution more practical and potentially more beneficial to humanity than socialism or communism—namely, the normal purchase of control of industries by the investments of the working man.

Under the old philosophy of trade unionis "pure and simple," with its emphasis upon the strike as labor's only weapon of last resort, the possibility that workmen might some day come into control of large industrial enterprises thru the simple process of investing their savings in corporate securities was never considered. But a new trade union philosophy is rapidly developing in the United States, for which the labor banking movement is largely responsible. It is based on the idea that labor's collective money power, instead of the strike, is the instrument thru which the workers will win advancement in the future.

The labor banking movement has been called the most significant development in the field of labor since the formation of the American Federation of Labor. In building up their resources the labor banks have sought to conserve trade union funds in their care by throwing their influence against all unnecessary strikes. The limiting factor at present is not a lack of resources among the workers for investment, but the scarcity of men, trusted by labor, who are capable of directing large investment undertakings. The "two-fisted, fighting leaders" of labor are not qualified for the task. Banks and investment companies cannot be successfully managed by the walking delegate type of man. The new labor financiers are the men to whom the fighting leaders must largely surrender their power when the strategy of the counting room and the directors' meeting is substituted for the strategy of the picket line.

Character and Presidency.

New Haven Journal-Courier: Mr. McAdoo has now faded as has Hiram Johnson. It is well that it is so. It would spell decline for the republic for either of the two with his record to enjoy the prestige of a formal nomination. To promote a man of whom the citizens are suspicious blurs the fineness of citizenship. Mr. McAdoo is a "smart" man—a familiar type, which has given rise to the slang expression "to get away with it." As one reflects how narrow the escape from having this man—all things to all men (and his availability would have made him a mighty good vote-getter), the conviction of a guidance of the nation's destiny outside of human planning is confirmed.

The California Johnson is of another description, more virile, less subtle, but equally devoid of the idealistic quality, rather coarse. There was an idea in the ascription, "The first gentleman in Europe," applied to one of the crowned heads. The one referred to was no hero to be sure, but he looked the part at least—met the demand of the crowd for something finer than themselves. Especially in a democracy where ideals spread by contagion and are not imposed from without is it imperative that our chieftains shall be admirable. America still enjoys abroad the imputations of Fox's eulogy of George Washington, the plain citizen, — "beside whom the kings and potentates of Europe become contemptible." In choosing our presidents it is well to remember their double function, as officials and men. The youth of this land were nourished for a century on careers and characters of choice and kingly men. It will be a sorry day when the high standards of the presidency are surrendered—when it becomes an office to which any clever fellow may aspire.

Opposes Views of Lenine.

Lenin is seen as the greatest man of our time and as an arch destroyer by two writers who debate in The Forum the question, "Was Lenin a Failure?" Half-mad and ill, he was suited to be at the head of a government distinguished by wild destruction, unlimited bestiality, cruelty, and animosity, says Professor Pitirim Sorokin. The generous phrases and catch-words with which he trie dto "beautify" all the inferiority of his nature, his anti-sociability, madness, and wild activity, are nothing but usual "yells" with which such individuals try to betray themselves as well as other people. Only an ignorant and naive people and individuals of mad, anti-social, and inferior type are deceived by these "gorgeous speech-reactions;" for them only Lenin is "the saviour of mankind," "the liberator of humanity," "the great reformer," "the new Jesus Christ," and so on. Lenin's only positive service is that he himself discredited his own ideas of communism and socialism more completely than anyone else could do.

Dr. Anna Louise Strong contradicts this statement in the following words: No public man of our time has made such a gift to human progress at Lenin. No man has been so increasingly loved by so many millions of people. No man has attained such triumphant success, whether measured by actual achievement at the time of his death or by promise of growing results for the future. In my two years spent traveling from the Arctic ocean to the Caucasus, among peasants and city workers, among communists and anti-communist specialists, I find this view taken for granted. It is only outside Russia that the greatness of Lenin is doubted by anyone. It was not Lenin who made the chaos. It was Lenin who swept away the last of the debris and laid the foundations of a solid building.

He did it by a simple formula: "All power to the soviets."

Out of Reach.

Sioux City Journal: Senator Reed of Missouri, never will be any closer to the white house than he is right now, and that is not saying that his proximity to it is anything to boast of.

No change in the size or weight of golf balls will be legislated the present season, an official of the United States golf association announced. Steel shafted clubs will be barred fro muse in tournament officially sanctioned by the U. S. G. A., he said.

THE LINCOLN HATCHERY
37th & South Sts.

BUY YOUR CHICKS direct from the hatchery. It is cheaper, safer, and more satisfactory all round to buy chicks direct from the hatchery than to get them thru a middleman. At the hatchery you get fresh chicks, right out of the mammoth incubators; they have had no chance to get chilled, have never been mistreated. At the hatchery producer and consumer meet; no middleman's profit to pay. The hatchery management knows the source of the eggs! Surer, safer, cheaper—COME TO THE HATCHERY.

Fitting.

One of the choicest literary treasures of Hollywood high is a brief composition that was acquired as the result of a request that every member of the class write a composition based on a meeting between a groceryman and a customer and in which there should be some pathetic incident or reference. The composition referred to read as follows:

"What do you want?" asked the groceryman.

The woman replied: "A pound of tea."

"Green or black?" asked the grocer.

"I think I'll take black," she said. "It's for a funeral."—Los Angeles Times.

Major Alfred H. Beach, former legal adviser and chairman of the appeals board of the veterans' bureau at Minneapolis, was charged with extortion, bribery, and violation of the war risk insurance act.

MEN AND THINGS

We have a rather peculiar system of political morals. We grow very indignant when we find out that some government officer has been selling our property and pocketing the proceeds, but only if it be in cash. If he can trade the offices over which he has control in order to gain higher office for himself and greater power we crown him as a successful politician and give him what he wants. All this comes about thru our failure to realize our own opportunities as a unit of the government, as well as our failure to perform our duties as citizens. It the politicians will let us escape these responsibilities we will pay whatever fine they assess us if they will not make it too steep.

Medical experts in the Keiser case told the court that the fact that a man became confused on the witness stand was no sign of any mental infirmity, but is the natural result of being surrounded by unusual conditions and the strain placed upon him by being compelled to respond to a variety of questions, half of them hostile. In other words, they said our system of getting the truth out of witnesses is calculated to scare and confuse them so that they cannot tell the truth. Here is another matter we are referring to the committee to ascertain if we are very smart.

The two most popular crimes in the country are soaking the rich and robbing the poor. We are still receiving testimony as to which is the worser. Robbing the poor is a system based on the desire to get as much out of a man as possible tnd giving him back as little as one must. It is worked by monopolists in trade and by greedy employers of labor. Soaking the rich has back of it the desire to get even for whatever inequalities in life have resulted from past causes. It is worked by using the means of taxation and court judgments and by so contriving as not to return a full day's work for a full day's pay. We see no moral difference in either case.

Ole Buck is considering a proposition to head our armed insurrection against the tyranny of grammarians. Colonel Buck has found his usefulness as a writer very much curtailed in the past by the fear of offending the principal of his local high school, much the same as has the fear of the minister of his wife's church moderated the character of his spoken language. As soon as we can furnish him with the facts regarding the income taxes paid by Ring Lardner, Irvin Cobb and Kin Hubbard, our chief masticators of grammar, we will be able to secure a decision as to whether he will act as one of the generals in our army.

Lieutenant Governor Fred G. Johnson, who was also a candidate for senator, had this description of himself on his cards: "Not too conservative; not too progressive." Offhand one would say this looked like an attempt at avoiding any meeting of the issues and as an effort to carry water on both shoulders. On the contrary, however, it is a description of just the kind of a public servant we ought to have in legislative halls, because it describes a man who is well balanced; whose mind is open, who will vote as he sees the light and not as it is reflected to him thru the eyes of prejudice or passion or both. Our conservatives are too conservative and our radicals too radical. P. S—He wasn't elected.

Some of the endorsements of candidates by the railroad brotherhoods were excellent, but some of them represented a tribute paid to mediocrity that has had a knack of advertising itself well. It is, however, a common failing of men to take others at their own rated value. Labor must learn one lesson, however, and that is that it cannot accomplish results with ineffective political tools. No engineer would mount a locomotive, however perfect an exhaust it might possess, if it would not get him where he wants to go. Where then does he expect to get in politics if he uses representatives who can take him nowhere?

THE LAST STRAW.

Mr. Busiman was exasperated with the telephone. Ten times that morning he had tried to get a number and each time something or other had prevented him from speaking. At last he got thru.

"Hello!" he said. "Is Mr. X there?"

"Yes," replied the voice. "Do you want to speak to him?"
